Then We'll Sing a New Song
Poison Around the World Round and Flat
We Don't Own Ourselves
—By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1922 Star Co.)

The Rev. Robert Watson, Presbyterian, says the nation needs a new song. "The Star Spangled Banner" and "My Country 'Tis of Thee" do not suit the times. The song must "proclaim real democracy and express spirituality."

Who will offer a prize for the song, who will write it? Dr. Watson says it must have a historical basis, proclaim our ideals, express our desire for fellowship of all nations, praise peace and its glories, and be "saturated with spirituality." That calls for an able song writer.

Hitherto national songs have been based on humanity's delight in crowing over the enemy, bragging about beating him.

All creatures on this earth share each other's misery. This applies to human beings and humbler creatures. Storks make their nests on the roofs of houses in Holland. In far off South Africa grasshoppers are poisoned by Transvaal farmers.

No connection there apparently, yet storks in Holland are dying off, vanishing with old traditions, because in Winter they go to Africa, eat poisoned grasshoppers, die of poison and never see Holland again.

Similarly, dearly beloved, poisonous mental doctrines applied to human beings on the other side of the earth may poison us.

President Harding says the right to work must be upheld, which means that union workers must not exclude non-union men.

The President also says the right to collective bargaining must be maintained. This means that men in unions must be allowed to get together and as unions discuss working conditions with employers.

When old-fashioned school trustees asked the young teacher, "Do you teach that the earth is round or flat?" she was uncertain as to their belief, and replied, "I teach both round and flat."

The President, however, may say that when employers hire union men they must deal with

ACCUSES HARDING OF DRY LAW VIOLATION

Washington, July 6.—President Harding and Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board were charged by Senator Caraway in the Senate today with flagrant violation of the prohibition laws in permitting the sale of liquor on Shipping Board vessels.

RAIL STRIKE CLOSES FIFTY COAL MINES

Uniontown, Pa., July 6.—Fifty mines near here with a daily output of over 10,000 tons of bituminous coal were closed today and many mine workers forced into idleness due to the railroad shopmen's strike. Empty

BRAZILIAN REVOLT IS CONFIRMED

Washington, July 6 (By International News Service).—The State Department today received from Sheldon L. Crosby, American charge d'affaires at Rio De Janiero, confirmation of reports of a revolt of the Brazilian army. Crosby's dispatch said the rebellious soldiers had captured and were holding the Fortress of Copacabana at the mouth of Rio Harbor. No fighting was reported and the city was said to be quiet.

HONOR GUARD OF VATICAN IN MUTINY

London, July 6 (By the Associated Press).—A Central News despatch from Rome says the gendarmes serving in an honorary capacity in policing the Vatican mutinied this morning, crying out, "Long live the Pope. Death to the commandant."

They were immediately disarmed and the barracks occupied by Swiss guards.

HURRAY, FOLKS! FAIR WEATHER ON WAY

Without making any definite promises, Forecaster Smith is about to lift the embargo on clear skies. Fair, with slowly rising temperature tonight and Friday, is his official prediction, with igher temperatures reaching around the 80s by Saturday. Cloudy weather prevails today along the eastern coast, while it is fair inland.

Rallies Forces in Hills Near Dublin; 20 Killed in Fresh Fighting in Ireland

Belfast, July 16 (By International News Service).—Twenty persons are reported killed and 100 wounded in a two-day battle between rebels and Free Staters at Renagh, County Tipperary. Five Irregulars have been killed at Castle Follard. Free State troops repulsed Irregulars in a five-hour battle at Tyrol Pass. Many houses have been blown up at Tullamore.

London, July 6 (By the Associated Press).—Complete mystery surrounds the whereabouts of Eamon de Valera, the Irish Republican leader, following the surrender of his besieged comrades in Dublin to the forces of the Provisional Free State Government.

The rumors reaching here from Dublin are almost as varied as the number of correspondents sending them. One declares it is unknown

C. W. Morse Must Be Tried With 23 Other Men

New York, July 6.—Charles W. Morse and twenty-three others, who were indicted last April, charged with using the mails to defraud the investing public in the promotion of the sale of the stock of the United States Steamship Company, must be tried together.

Federal Judge A. N. Hand today handed down a decision overruling an application for separate trials.

DAUGHERTY JOINS HARDING PARTY

Marion, O., July 6. — President Harding brought his Marion visit to a close today and departed for Columbus, where he will make an overnight stay before proceeding to the Capital tomorrow. Accompanying the President when he left was Attorney-General Harry W. Daugherty, who joined the party here last night. Through the Attorney-General the President was put in touch again with developments in the coal conference and the rail strike.

PANIC IN SUBWAY; 150 HURT

Wild Scene in New York Tunnel, 75 Feet Underground, as Train Catches Fire

New York, July 6 (By the Associated Press).—About 150 persons were overcome by smoke today when a northbound Jerome avenue express on the East Side subway caught fire near Lexington avenue and Sixty-first street.

Dozens of ambulances were summoned from nearly every hospital in the city and Mayor Hylan arrived to direct the rescue work.

The accident occurred about 75 feet underground, at a point where the express tracks run beneath the local.

The fire started in the motorman's box after a fuse had blown out. There was a flash of flame and the smoke swept through the crowded trains, rendering scores unconscious.

When the emergency brakes were applied and the train came to a grinding halt guards threw open the doors and passengers who had not been overcome scrambled to escape. Those unable to walk were carried from the cars to the 59th street station.

Detective McCarthy to Get $30,000 in Rewards

New York, July 6.—Gordon T. McCarthy, the young detective whose work of seven months has resulted in the recovery of $500,000 worth of bonds, part of the $2,500,000 mail robbery here last October, and the arrest of three men charged with the crime, will get from the government and bonding companies about $30,000 in rewards for his labor, if he is fortunate.

McCarthy only escaped death by twenty-four hours. If he had put off the arrests another day he would have been killed.

BANK ROBBER'S ARREST DUE TO WOMAN

The bandit of fiction in evening clothes, handsome and debonair, moving with beautiful women in beautiful hotels, drinking wine and reveling in wildest fashion, but for diversion reading Shakespeare and the classics, is revealed in real life in the amazing capture in New York of Gerald Chapman and pals, Randolph bank robbers and long-hunted mail truck robbers whose jobs run into millions.

Desperado by day, fierce, high-striving toting guns with hair triggers, but by night kid-gloved gentlemen, moving with dukes, counts, earls and bankers in the Ritz, Claridge, Waldorf and other hotel palaces. On their arms women, gorgeous women.

Into their midst and confidence crept the detective of fiction also brought to life in Gordon H. McCarthy, an American Express Company detective. Posed as a killer did McCarthy, and biding his time risked his life a thousand times a day to make one of the greatest thief catches ever made in criminal history.

Today Chapman, alias Bryce, international crook, called "the Count," and who actually wore a monocle, is in Tombs prison, New York, lacking bail of $125,000. With him are

VANISHES FROM LOS ANGELES

Freed by Habeas Corpus Writ; Leaves Woman Accomplice "to Face Music Alone"

Los Angeles, July 6.—Donald D. Stewart, former minister, reformer and temperance crusader, who was arrested here recently after a roving career in which he married a quintette of women, has disappeared from the city, and is being sought by the police.

In his flight Stewart left the companion of his travels, Mrs. Ethel Turner Obaldestone, who claims to be one of his wives, to "face the music" alone.

Both were to have been taken to Boston, where Stewart would face charges of bigamy, grand larceny and conspiracy, while Mrs. Obaldestone would be accused of conspiracy.

Now that the "marrying parson" has fled, Mrs. Obaldestone will have to stand trial alone.

Stewart obtained his release from jail here on habeas corpus proceedings, claiming that he was imprisoned illegally. He made no effort to procure the release of Mrs. Obaldestone. She is alleged to have helped him in paving the way for his wedding to Norma Ehrenseller of Jamaica Plain, Mass., whom he married last Fall after Mrs. Obaldestone, representing herself as his sister, had introduced him to the girl.

Stewart and Mrs. Obaldestone, it is said, lived at the bride's home long enough to borrow $3,000 from her and her parents. Then they decamped.

After Stewart had been at liberty for some time, he evidently bethought himself of Mrs. Obaldestone, for attorneys went to the courts seeking to get habeas corpus papers for her release also. But by this time an indictment against her had been received from Boston and the plea was denied.

Local police are incensed at the failure of the Boston police to send on officers or documents that would have enabled them to block Stewart's release in a similar manner.

They point out that Stewart was arrested two weeks ago, but that only two days ago did documentary evidence against him sufficient to thwart a habeas corpus petition arrive. Boston officers are now en route to Los Angeles.

"Had the Boston police sent us the proper information immediately

Reliability

The Boylston National Bank began business in 1845.

Its growth has been sound, for it has earned the confidence of commercial and savings depositors alike, as a reliable Bank.

It has increased its deposits over 50 per cent since 1920.

It has earned the confidence, too, of those who borrow from it. It first applies the acid-test of character to a borrower—then the yard-stick to his material resources.

Our officers will be glad to discuss banking matters with you; we have every modern convenience—including Safe Deposit Vaults.

upon for request by wire, we would have been able to present enough evidence to the court to warrant holding Stewart as a fugitive from justice," said Police Chief Oakes.

Officers Go West to Get Prisoners

Police Inspectors Donovan and Connolly and Special Officer Edmund Hayes, attached to District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien's office, have left for Los Angeles, Cal., to bring back Donald Duncan Stewart, ex-preacher, wanted here for an alleged bigamous marriage to Norma L. Ehrenseller, Boston stenographer, whom he wooed while sick at a Sharon sanitarium.

Stewart with a woman said to be the fourth wife of six he is alleged to have married is free on a habeas corpus petition, following arrest two weeks ago. The woman arrested with him, who posed as his sister and helped to victimize the Boston stenographer, is still in jail. A warrant charging the ex-prisoner with bigamy sent by the Boston police has been received in the California city.

Leaving tonight to assist the officers in extraditing the prisoners are Sergeant William J. Carey and Policewoman Irene McCauliffe, the first police matron to cross the country to get a prisoner.

Shreveport, La., July 6.—Nathaniel S. Allen, ninety-two years old, said to have been the oldest Odd Fellow, is dead here.

Pennsylvania R. R. Bars Strikers After Next Monday

Pittsburgh, July 6.—An ultimatum to all striking shopmen of the Pennsylvania Railroad, covering the great central region, was issued from the offices here today.

The company gives its striking shopmen until Monday noon to apply for reinstatement.

Those not seeking their jobs by that time will not be re-employed, the official statement said.

COAL SHORTAGE AN ADVANTAGE FOR MINERS

New York, July 6 (By International News Service).—The striking coal miners have won a strategic advantage which, they believe, will force the operators to enter into negotiations with them, according to a statement made here today by William Green, secretary of the United Mine Workers of America.

"Through the depletion of coal reserves the miners have now brought about an economic advantage for themselves," said Mr. Green. "They have gone to the point where it is necessary for the operators to negotiate.

"The surplus coal supply is now estimated at 10,000,000 tons. This would last the country from two to three weeks if no more were produced. Non-union mines are supplying from 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 tons of coal weekly, but this is only about 50 per cent. of the country's consumption."

81 Fall River Auto Mishaps

Fall River, July 6.—According to a report issued by the local police, there were 81 automobile accidents in this city during the past month. Twenty-two brought injuries to individuals.

SEEKS WORLD-WIDE SCHOOL CONFERENCE

A world conference on education in 1923, with delegates from every corner of the civilized globe.

This is the aim of the committee on foreign affairs of the National Education Association, as expressed today before that body in session at Mechanics Hall.

The project was presented by Augustus O. Thomas, State superintendent of schools in Maine, chairman of this committee. He stated that invitations would be sent to forty-five countries in all parts of the world.

"The International Conference will cover at least two weeks and will consist of a number of sub-conferences and committees which will report to the general conference. We propose to present a pageant presenting the contributions of the various nations who are to take part in the conference, if proper funds can be provided and proper setting arranged.

"Our plans include a brief statement of the educational status as it exists today in the several countries participating, a volume of great historic and professional value.

DISCUSS WORLD PEACE.

"Our committee recommends that out of the world conference there shall come an International Education Association which will federate all of the numerous educational organizations throughout the world. International committees may be formed to study world educational interests.

"In addition to this organization we propose to discuss a World Fair Exposition to be held in 1930. Here the nations of the earth may come together upon common ground, bringing with them the fruits of peace.

"Centring around the exposition there would be a congress, which would bring together the master musicians, great artists, the leaders of thought in the whole world. This would mark the beginning of a new cycle in human history and world friendship, good will and justice."

George D. Strayer, professor of educational administration, Teachers' College, Columbia University, drew an ovation when in reading the report of the legislative committee, he announced that the support of that body has been given in the fight for the passage of the Towner-Sterling bill now before Congress.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

"Those who visited the President, on this matter, are convinced that the administration will recommend the creation of a Department of Education and Welfare. Inequality existing in wealth and in income should not be permitted to result in inequality of educational opportunity.

William E. Owens, president of Chicago Normal College, presented the report of the Committee on Sources of Revenue. The report of the Committee on Health Problems, by Thomas D. Wood of Columbia University, was also read.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon Governor Channing Cox tendered a reception to the delegates in the Hall of Flags, State House.

Tonight the organization will attend a performance at the Boston Opera House. Tomorrow's meeting will be held at Loew's State Orpheum.

Fire ladders were lowered through iron grating at 61st street and unconscious women lifted to the street.

RESERVES CALLED.

The injured were stretched out on the sidewalks for several blocks. A temporary hospital was organized and fourteen pulmotors put in operation. The crowd of spectators became dense and police reserves were rushed to the scene.

Men, women and children filled the ten-car train. Guards fought the flames with hand extinguishers until firemen arrived. They soon quelled the blaze, which in itself was small. Many of the fire-fighters also were overcome.

Relief work soon got under way. Besides the doctors, who hastened to the scene in ambulances, many other physicians arrived in taxicabs, some accompanied by their office nurses.

Bloomingdale's department store organized a fire brigade of seventy-five employes, who entered the subway to aid in the rescue work. The store's drug department was raided for supplies and pulmotors.

Many firemen were overcome as they tried to descend the subway steps. When the rescue squad arrived, however, its members donned gas masks and attacked the flames.

PATROLMAN HERO.

Mayor Hylan was driven back by fumes when he attempted to enter the subway. He was too badly gassed to make another attempt, but he promptly directed that city experts be summoned from the fire department and the department of water supply, gas and electricity to make a thorough investigation.

A man who kept his head when others lost theirs was the outstanding hero of the accident. He was Patrolman Frederick Norman of the Oak street station, who took charge of the train when it halted.

As clouds of smoke began to roll through the cars he commanded the passengers, in the name of the law, to remain quiet. Then he directed the guards to open the door and began dragging half-conscious men and women from the train.

Then he, too, collapsed and was lifted to the street. When he was revived he said he had detected smoke in the cars after the train had pulled out of Grand Central Station.

36 CARRIED UP.

Mayor Hylan at once picked out Patrolman Norman as the special hero of the occasion and ordered him taken to his home in the Mayor's own automobile.

Conductor Frank Bradshaw said that the first flash came as the train was passing Fifty-eighth street. Immediately, he said, the passengers became panic stricken and rushed the doors. Bradshaw held them closed, however, until the train came to a stop.

There is no station in the tunnel where the train halted, and the only means of escape are narrow walls, equipped with ladders, leading up to the surface of the street. Thirty-six passengers from car No. 7, on which Bradshaw was riding, were carried up one of those walls by a machine gun and then took him conscious.

Recent Finding of Two Waifs With Similar Clothing Seems to Prove Existence of an Organization to Make Away With Infants

Is there a regular medium for the disposal of unwanted babies in Boston?

Is some person—or persons—maintaining an agency to which unwanted babies are taken, and subsequently disposed of—abandoned?

Officials of the Chardon Street Home believe there is.

The five weeks' old baby boy who was abandoned Tuesday in the doorway of Mrs. John Lamman, of No. 278 Arborway, Jamaica Plain, wore a flannelette hooded cape, rather loosely sewn, as though the maker had been in great haste.

CLOTHING OF SAME MAKE.

From cloth that appears to have been cut from the same piece, with the same sewing and the same roughly designed hood, was the little cape, also of flannelette, which was wrapped around an abandoned baby taken several weeks ago to the Chardon Street Home.

The matron believes that whoever made the cape for the unfortunate mite who was five weeks ago brought to the home, also made the flannelette wrap which was donned about the baby boy who was abandoned the morning of the Fourth in Jamaica Plain.

This clew promises the police material aid in seeking out the person or persons who left the sleeping baby in Mrs. Lammon's doorway and it may mean the unearthing of an alleged agency operating for the disposal of unfortunate, unwanted infants.

BY SAME MAKER.

The matron at the Chardon Street Home is convinced that the same individual made the clothing for the last two babies to be thrown upon the street in Boston.

The abandonment of the bright-eyed five weeks' old baby boy in Jamaica Plain, Tuesday, brings the total of abandoned babies in Boston for the past year, up to the largest number ever recorded within a year.

Meanwhile, the newest addition to the long list of "unwanted," taken his abandonment with real philosophy. He is what they call a "good" baby—one of those kind that every mother welcomes whether her flock is large or small.

Not even a delayed meal disturbs his sense of the fitness of things. While a kindly matron and two very awkward newspaper folk tried to make him pose on an empty stomach—it lacked only several minutes to lunch time for the youngster—he stifled his disgust and a yawn was the only outward sign he gave of his distress.

"He is undoubtedly of American stock," said the matron. "It is generally very easy to distinguish a baby of foreign parents from an American child. This baby has all the marks of an American baby."

Bright, blue eyes, light skin and brown hair, all bear out the matron's verdict. He is a fine, healthy baby with a disposition to match. It is enough to say that, once his hand been bathed and fed after his arrival at the home, no protest of any sort was heard from him.

NAMED BY STATE.

"What will he be called?" the matron was asked.

"It depends," she answered, smiling at the little bundle of humanity that stared wistfully up at her. "The State will give him a name. It will be just a common name, maybe Smith.

"If his nose promises to turn up—just a little bit—and his eyes sort of dance, why, he's likely to get the name of Sullivan, or O'Brien.

FIRE LIEUTENANT NOONAN DEAD

John A. Noonan, former lieutenant in the Boston fire department, who retired in 1919 after twenty-nine years' active service, died today at his home at No. 6 Cavanaugh avenue, Braintree.

Noonan served during most of his fire-fighting career with Engine 42, Andrew square, Dorchester. Oldtimers recall the Lincoln street fire and the famous Murphy Varnish Company's blaze. Noonan saved a man from death at the former and was conspicuously brave at the latter, being cited in general orders on both occasions for bravery.

Noonan was fifty-seven years old and had been sick for more than a year. He is survived by a widow and three daughters, Grace, Pauline and Anna. Most of his life Noonan lived in South Boston, moving to Braintree when he retired.

He was appointed in 1890 and was assigned to Engine 2, South Boston.

FRENCH ASKS $5,000 OF TREMONT TRUST

Attorney Asa P. French, former United States District Attorney, today sued the Tremont Trust Company for $5,000 in Norfolk County Superior Court at Dedham. He claims he loaned the bank $1,000. He seeks the return of this sum with interest. He also claims the bank owes him $416.69 for services as president during the month of February, 1921.

20 BUILDINGS BURNED AS DUBLIN CLASH ENDS

whether De Valera is alive, another that he has been wounded and captured, and a third that he escaped on Monday, having delivered as his farewell watchword to the garrison: "Never surrender, but escape if you can."

Yet another speculation is that he has joined Erskine Childers, who is reported to be at the head of a mobile force of fighters in the hills around Dublin, while elsewhere it is suggested that he has gone to give the benefit of his counsels to the southern Republicans centred at Mallow.

The material loss to the citizens of Dublin by the fighting is very heavy. The value of the building destroyed is estimated at between £1,000,000 and £4,000,000, while the destruction also means the loss of very large sums in rentals and probably considerable unemployment.

Cathal Brugha, who until the Easter rebellion was an obscure drummer under the English name of Charles Burgess, but who has become a leader among the opponents of the Anglo-Irish treaty, made a dramatic exit from the burning O'Connell street buildings.

While his garrison went forward under a white flag to surrender, Brugha dashed, revolver in hand, for one of the besiegers' barricades in Findlaters Lane, intending to fight his way through to liberty. The Nationals, however, turned on a machine gun and then took him prisoner, wounded. According to one version he is dying.

Early today the flames were still rising in fierce columns from some twenty buildings in O'Connell street, while others had already burned out, their shells enclosing masses of glowing ruins.

The fire brigades were concentrating their efforts on the offices of the Dublin Tramway Company, at the corner of O'Connell and Cathedral streets, from which huge flames were spurting, causing anxiety for the safety of the Cathedral at the corner of Cathedral and Marlborough streets, a short distance east of the Tramway Building and separated from it only by narrow Thomas Lane.

The fires on the opposite side of O'Connell street were thought to be under control, although a strong wind was adding to the difficulties of the firemen.

The fate of the garrisons of the burned buildings, apart from those who surrendered and a certain number known to have escaped, was unknown at an early hour.

Dublin, July 6.—One of the prisoners taken during the battle between the Free States and Republican irregulars was Mrs. Terence McSwiney, widow of the late Lord Mayor of Dublin. She was arrested with others following the bombardment of the Hamman Hotel.

With her was arrested a sister of the late Kevin Barry. They were taken at a barricade with bags containing two revolvers in holsters and some ammunition. The women were released.

BANK ROBBER'S ARREST DUE TO WOMAN

George "Dutch" Anderson, alias Charles Heins, and Charles Lambert, alias Loober. They are held for the Federal Grand Jury, charged with robbing a United States mail truck of $2,500,000 in bonds, cash, securities and jewels last October. Burr is wanted in Massachusetts for the $40,000 holdup of the Randolph Bank at Randolph on November 17, 1919. The State of New York wants them also for their part in a $70,000 robbery of an American Express Company truck last December.

A greater thriller than the drama McCarthy, cool Irishman, staged was never known in police circles. Of the women who mixed with the gang in the Hotel night life McCarthy said:

"There were no gun molls. They were beautiful women, creatures who yearned for the high lights and didn't seem to know that the men they gave their lips to were burglars, stick-up men and crooks as well known in the old world as the new."

"Dining at the Plaza, Ritz, Martinique, Claridge or Savoy, we always spent a thousand dollars. And after a night of revelry those fellows for dinnertime, would read Shakespeare and other masters of literature. It seemed strange, but literature seemed to be their pet hobby, aside from engineering big hauls.

"It was a continuous round of wild parties in many of the big up-town hotels, high-class road houses, cabarets, etc. I spent money freely on the gang—sometimes the were as many as ten or twelve in the mob—and their women folk."

STAGED WILD REVELS.

Of the revels the detective said:

"They were wild, wild beyond reason."

And what do you suppose led to the downfall of the gang? A red headed woman. More fiction brought to life. The woman with the auburn tresses dropped the lead that McCarthy picked up as a hungry tiger and followed the trail until he stalked and captured his prey.

The woman is Martha Fuller. She was arrested March 4 for attempting to steal a traveler's check. It was one of those stolen by the gang in the American Express holdup.

The Fuller woman was released when she convinced the authorities that she had come by the check legitimately. But the damage had been done.

George T. McCarthy, express company agent assigned to the case, shadowed the red headed woman until finally he had arrested the trio.

THREE ARRESTED IN WILD MELEE

Following a free-for-all fight at No. 69 Cedar street, in which a man was badly beaten and a woman was slashed with a razor, three men were arrested. The men gave their names as Antonio Ficoli of No. 39 Greenwich Park and Benjamin and Joseph Ticso, brothers, of No. 35 Cedar street.

them as unions. And at the same time no union must interfere with any man who doesn't want to join the union.

That sounds reasonable, but if union men did not fight against it there would soon be no unions.

Miss Cora Meredith, actress, twenty-five years old, tried to drown herself. "Don't tell me the usual stuff about how noble it is to live. I have a right to kill myself if I want to," says she.

The lady is mistaken.

If she had spent twenty-five years making something useful, a machine or picture, and if that thing could talk and say, "I have a right to destroy myself," the young woman would say, "No, I made you, and fussed over you; it's your duty to go on existing."

No man or woman owns himself or herself. Each owes all possible effort, including patience with life and honest effort as long as life lasts. It's none too cheerful at best. Even President Harding was blue in his talk on the Fourth.

"A thousand years in Thy sight is but as yesterday."

That has always been true, and now, thanks to the radio, ten thousand square miles for the farmer are no bigger than the palm of your hand.

Farmers all over the United States get crop reports, weather reports and other news instantaneously through radio by all of the government. The man ten days' ride from a postoffice or railroad knows weather, crops and general news as soon as the operator in the telegraph room. That is real progress.

JACK SANBORN FACING FOURTEEN SUITS FOR BRIDAL BILLS

ASKS PAY FOR GIRL'S RING

Former Owner Wants Bridegroom to Settle for Diamond and Emerald

By BERT FORD.

Copyright, 1922, by Bert Ford. Reproduction Prohibited.

"Jack" Sanborn was today sued for the $460 diamond and emerald-studded wedding ring which he slipped on the finger of Eleanor Montgomery Sanborn, his eighteen-year-old bride, when they were married by the Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham, D. D., in Arlington Street Church last March.

The wedding ring lawsuit and thirteen others were entered against Sanborn today. W. Robert Montgomery, Boston and New York financier, better known as Eleanor's "Uncle Bob," is plaintiff in all fourteen suits. Added to the five lawsuits brought against the boy husband last week, today's actions make a total of nineteen based on unpaid wedding bills.

LIST OF WEDDING DEBTS.

Eleanor's uncle is also suing for the $100 which Jack borrowed from him after the ceremony to pay the officiating clergyman and for the gold and pearl watch chain and platinum studs which he claims Jack took from his dresser, wore at the wedding and never returned.

An inventory of Uncle Bob's suits against Sanborn follows:

Wedding ring, paid to Hector Papanti, jeweler	$450.00
War tax	22.50
Amount advanced on car, diverted from original use	1,250.00
Amount advanced for the minister in cash	100.00
Amount borrowed on night of wedding in cash	350.00
Drawn on me in New York for money	50.00
Drawn on me in New York for money	50.00
Drawn on me in New York for money	75.00
Pearl and platinum set of studs, which was worn at wedding and taken from my apartment without my permission	186.00
Gold and pearl watch chain from my apartment appropriated to his own use	100.00
Bachelor dinner and broken dishes at the Copley-Plaza, at which Jack Sanborn signed my name without permission	166.80
Amount paid D. W. Dunn & Co. (furniture movers) for packing the wedding presents, charged to me.	28.20
Amount charged at Westland avenue garage and tires appropriated	245.10
Calls from Bermuda for money	150.00
Totals	$3,161.30

DUE TO SPITE TRIP.

All but the suit to recover the $1,250 which he paid as his share for the "honeymoon" Packard roadster, were entered in Woburn District Court as were the lawsuits for Jack's wedding clothes, massage treatments, hotel, and automobile accessories last week. Mr. Montgomery's counsel made his claim on the half he paid for the automobile an action of tort.

If Jack Sanborn had not gone on a spite trip to the honeymoon resort after the afternoon of July 2 and passed and repassed in review before Hotel Puritan where his bride is living with her mother, this flock of lawsuits would not have been showered upon his young shoulders.

"The nerve of him," said Eleanor Sanborn. "Think of him daring to take out the car upon which five attachments had been placed. Uncle Bob and his attorneys said they never heard of such a thing. It was done in defiance of law and custom. I should say. Deputy Sheriff Walker had given orders that the roadster should not be removed from the Sanborn garage in Winchester.

"Lo, and behold, the gallant Jack appeared in front of our hotel. He made a show of himself, waving exultantly to taxi drivers and at the windows, just like a kid. And he had a parade all by himself in front of Hotel Buckminster the same afternoon. Wanted to show that he could take the car out.

"I told Uncle Bob he simply must collect what he advanced to Jack, after such an exhibition. I told him he ought to sue for the wedding ring and for the bachelor dinner and the $100 to the minister and every single item, and he did. With more than $3,000 added to attachments on that car I don't think Jack can export it again as he did the day before the Fourth."

Wife and Baby Who Long for Return of Missing Man

MRS. ARVID F. TILTON AND WYLMA

Tilton left home with a companion last Saturday on a fishing trip down Boston Harbor, and has not been heard of since. His wife fears he is drowned.

Mrs. Arvid F. Tilton of No. 28 Highland Park avenue, Roxbury, is anxiously awaiting word of the whereabouts of her husband, who she fears has been drowned somewhere near the entrance to Boston harbor.

Holding her baby, three-year-old Wylma, in her arms, Mrs. Tilton told reporters that her husband left home last Saturday to go on a fishing trip down the harbor. With him was a man the wife did not know. The two were to return late Saturday night.

Nothing has been seen of them since. Harbor police have searched the small islands about the harbor, while officers in Winthrop, Hull, Nantasket and other resorts have also been on the lookout for some trace of the two. Thus far, however, no traces of them have been found.

LYNN MAYOR IS 'ANXIOUS TO BE ARRESTED'

Harland A. McPhetres, Lynn's youthful soldier-Mayor, who ran afoul of the Independence Day regulations drawn up by State Fire Marshal George C. Neal when he allowed three bonfires in Lynn, today declared that he would "welcome" the arrest which Mr. Neal hints will be his portion.

"If Mr. Neal thinks I have violated a law, let him stand up like a man, get a warrant for my arrest and then let me see him prove in any court that I was wrong, said the Mayor.

Fire Marshall Neal said that, while he had not exactly decided what steps he will take, he is going to continue his investigation of the affair.

WANTS MAYOR'S ANSWER.

"I would like to have Mayor McPhetres answered publicly, who gave him the authority to approve those three bonfires in Lynn," said Mr. Neal. "This is not a personal matter with me. It is a State law, which provides that there shall be no bonfires in the open between March 1 and September 1."

"I am looking for trouble with no one," said Mayor McPhetres. "But now that Fire Marshal Neal has declared he is going to investigate as to who approved those bonfires, I will say right here that I approved them, in order that the good people of my city could enjoy themselves. The people of Lynn are with me to a finish in this matter, and any time that Mr. Neal wants to serve a warrant on me to come to court and answer to my actions in this matter, I am ready to go.

READY TO FIGHT.

"But before doing so I want to assure all those concerned that they will have the fight of their lives to prove that I was wrong in giving consent for the bonfires. And I probably will step on somebody's toes when I testify in court as to the great amount of interest these British propagandists are manifesting in dampening the spirit of Independence Day."

Fire Marshal Neal said that he would visit Lynn police headquarters today to find out just what were the contents of a letter which the Mayor sent to Police Chief Thomas M. Burckes in regard to the bonfire. Then, he said, he would consider his next step.

MARRIAGE EDICT BY CATHOLIC BISHOP

Springfield, July 6.—An edict has gone forth from the Rt. Rev. Thomas M. O'Leary, bishop of Springfield diocese, to the Catholic clergy, requesting them to demand hereafter of non-Catholics who marry Catholics a six weeks' course of instruction twice a week. It is announced that the rule is not for the purpose of converting non-Catholics to the Catholic faith, but is intended to make them familiar with the obligations that they enter into on marriage with a Catholic.

In the Boston diocese the length of the course of instruction is entirely at the discretion of the priest giving the instruction, and the courses may cover a period from one to six months. According to the Boston clergy there is no such rule or edict as has been suggested for the Springfield diocese.

IRISH TENOR IS SUED OVER SALE OF COWS

New York, July 6.—Because John McCormack has the most wonderful lyric tenor voice in the world is no reason for believing that John McCormack's cows are any better than other people's cows.

So says H. Mayer of Norton, Ct., who has brought suit against the famous singer, alleging "fraud and misrepresentation of facts."

John McCormack

About a year ago Mr. McCormack decided to see how really fresh milk tasted. He invested in several supposedly high-grade cows. Finding that it cost considerably more per glass of milk than a year ago—one paid for champagne, the singer decided to rid himself of his experimental dairy. He offered the cows at auction. Mr. Mayer was the "successful bidder."

Among other things, Mr. Mayer claims the failure of the cows to produce as he had anticipated. He further asserts that one of the cows is tubercular.

What's a "White Penny" Tip to a Manicure Lady? Flapper Dolls a Gabby Drummer

But an Old-Timer Like Foxy Rosie, She Picks the Flush Guys — But, Gee, "You Got Fun"

By THE FLAPPER.

You don't get much money for being a manicurist, but, gee, "you got fun." Having a job where the tips roll in kopek by kopek is like playing the ponies. You never know when you're going to win'r'lose. That is, you don't if you're new, the way I was. If you're an old-timer like Rose, you'll know your tip the minute you see your man.

Which has its advantages if there is a new girl to turn the bad risks over to. That's what Rose did to me.

"You can have this guy with the detachable cuffs," she said, as a starter. "I'm busy sharpening my file."

But even as I started with my hammer and chisel, I saw, in the barber shop mirror, the Foxy Rose with a "live one." A live one is a Wallie who travels behind a five-carat headlight, a jeweled Elk's tooth, or some other visable and unmistakable sign of being the darbs.

HAD HIM SPOTTED.

I wasn't quite sure how to conduct an official manicure, so I watched Rose in the mirror and took my cue from her.

She filed.

I filed.

She snipped.

I snipped.

She polished

I polished.

She smiled.

I smiled.

She got a dollar.

I got a dime.

"Wha'd you get?" Rose wanted to know when our clients had gone.

"Only a white penny," I said.

"I had that bozo spotted for a one-way kid," Rose giggled. "Believe me, sister, Rose knows. When you've been a finger blacksmith as long as I have you'll know a visiting Elk from an apple-knocker from the sticks. When I get a guy with fishhooks in his pocket I give 'm hangnails."

As the a. m. wore on I began to find out things about the drab-feathered sex. They like their fingernails shiny! If you give 'em a nice modest little polish they beller for more high-lights. The higher and pinker the glow, the better they like it.

THE SUNSHADE KID.

Towards noon a gobby gent in a too-tight brown suit sat down at my table and dipped his chubby fingers in the soap bowl.

"Would you believe it?" he said, as I plied the file, "this is the first time I've heard my own voice since yesterday? I'm a traveling salesman. My line is sunshades. I've got a fine chance in this weather, haven't I? But as I always say every cloud——"

"Round or pointed?" I interrupted.

"Either. But what I was going to say is this: I'm not going to leave Boston without eating a native bean. What's a matter with you coming out to lunch with me?"

"Can't," I said. "I don't eat lunch. I'm on a diet."

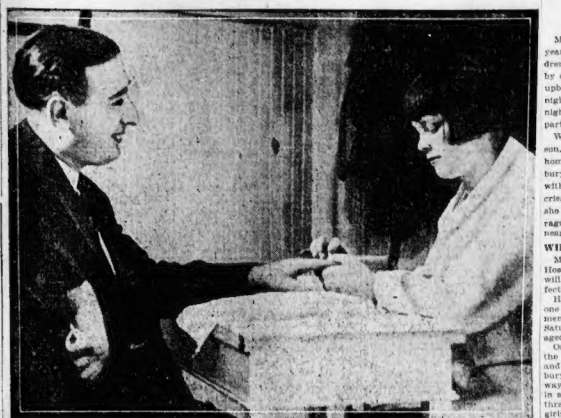
MANY YEARS AGO.

"That's nothing," said the sunshade man. "Say, I've been on a few diets myself. Once I couldn't walk or talk for six months. Lived on nothing but milk for six months.

"You poor man," I said, sympathetically. "When was that?"

The traveling man put a finishing touch on his nails by rubbing them briskly on his palm. Then, flipping me a quarter tip, he said:

"When I was a baby."



HE'S FULL OF JOY. WELL, WHY NOT!

This must be what they mean by a thumb-nail sketch. But, seriously, flaps, don't you think the guy at the table is quite shelt? Thought you'd think so.

STIRS SOCIETY BY SECRET WEDDING

Wealthy members of the fashionable North Shora Summer colony were given a sensation when they learned of the sudden marriage in London of Miss Minnie Finley Richards of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., to Stewart Berwin Kaiser of Brookline and Dalton.

The young couple stole a march on everyone except members of their immediate families by their action. Their engagement was to have been announced formally this Summer, while the wedding was not to have taken place until Fall.

Early in May Miss Richards, a daughter of Eben A. Richards of New York, went to Europe for a vacation, accompanied by her mother and her brother, Eben A. Richards, Jr.

In June young Kaiser started on his vacation, and told his friends that he would spend his time in Europe. In London he met Miss Richards. The two decided to marry at once instead of waiting for August. Mrs. Richards gave her consent, while Mr. Richards, in America, cabled his.

In the presence of the bride's mother and brother and a few immediate friends, the two were married in St. Margaret's chapel, London. The ceremony took place on June 28.

'FRENCH CHAPLIN' HAS EXCITING TIME AT PIER

New York, July 6.—Max Linder, the "French Charlie Chaplin," provided unintentional excitement and entertainment for 1,087 passengers on the French liner Paris at sailing time.

Linder showed up with his secretary and baggage a half-hour before sailing time, but had forgotten his passport. He hustled his secretary off to get a hydroplane.

Linder himself took a taxi and rushed to the Ritz Carlton. A porter quickly found the document. Linder arrived at the dock just as the gang plank was being raised. His secretary was left behind.

840 LOST AUTO LICENSES LAST MONTH

State Registrar Frank A. Good win within a month has suspended or revoked 840 auto licenses and registrations. Never before in the State's history has such a high record of drastic punishment for auto offenses been made.

Of that number 280 licenses were taken away from drivers who operated their cars while under the influence of liquor. The number of "hootch" drivers punished in June was without a parallel.

Since idea of the immensity of Goodwin's campaign to make the highways safer from reckless and drunken drivers may be gained by comparing the June figures with the same month last year. Last year 446 licenses were taken away in June, 129 of them for driving while under the influence of liquor.

Mr. Goodwin reports with a good deal of satisfaction that the number of fatal auto accidents has decreased, despite the fact that there are 80,000 more cars on the highway than a year ago.

In June, fifty-three people were killed, as compared with sixty-six a year ago. It will be remembered that eight were killed in the two unusual grade crossings accidents last month.

In analyzing the June accidents, Mr. Goodwin said there were two fatal autists and eleven less children killed than a year ago. The number of autoists killed was the same. The reduction of eleven killed being in pedestrians.

The total number killed in auto accidents this year is 229, as against 284 last year.

Mr. Goodwin said he has received many complaints that night accidents are resulting from improper headlights. An examination has revealed that the lenses correspond to the law but that they are being placed improperly on the cars, thereby throwing the glare into the eyes of the approaching autoist.

Mr. Goodwin today declared that the time for leniency toward the careless drivers who jeopardize the lives of others" has long since passed and he sent a letter to all the police chiefs of the State urging them to prosecute all violators of the headlight law.

MRS. ROGERS TO VISIT HOSPITALS IN SOUTH

Washington, D. C., July 6.—Mrs John Jacob Rogers, wife of Congressman Rogers, will make an investigation of the hospitals of North and South Carolina which are caring for disabled war veterans, at the request of Mrs. Warren G. Harding. Mrs. Rogers is expected to start on her Southern inspection tour the first of next week. She has just returned from an inspection of hospitals in the West, made at the request of President and Mrs. Harding. Congressman Rogers is expected to return to Massachusetts as soon as his wife leaves for the South.

IMPRISONED BY MILL STRIKERS, SHE CLAIMS

Lawrence, July 6.—Laura Croteau, twenty-five years old, a worker in the Pacific Mills, was held a prisoner for two days in a room at No. 521 Essex street by three men and threatened with a whipping on the bare back if she attempted to escape, according to her story today in the Lawrence Court. She told the court that the men were striking. As a result of her story Edward Gagne was found guilty of intimidation and fined $100.

Miss Croteau told the court that after she began to work at the mills she was one day followed to her room by three men. They locked her in the room and told her that if she attempted to escape she would be handed over to women strikers who would strip and beat her. Gagne was one of the men, she said.

Judge Jeremiah J. Mahoney warned the strikers that if any further cases of intimidation in connection with the strike came before him he would again impose the maximum sentence.

JAIL SOLDIER AFTER HIS HASTY MARRIAGE

San Francisco, July 6.—Hasty marriage put Charles F. Hubbard, a soldier at the San Francisco Presidio, in jail, and his bride of a few hours, Hazel Howard, in wrong with her family.

Hazel's parents found out the marriage and hastened to the church, where Hazel found that she had incurred their wrath, to say the least. Hubbard, following his bride, tried to bring peace, and missed the last boat back to the Presidio, overstaying his leave, and going to the guardhouse when he returned.

RAPS TREATMENT OF DISABLED VETERANS

San Francisco, July 6.—Governmental treatment of disabled veterans was scored by Judge Robert Marx, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, in his address at the second annual convention of the veterans.

He declared that the foremost purpose of the disabled American veteran today is to "go out into the No Man's land of governmental neglect and popular indifference and go into hospitals and homes to bring relief to our wounded and disabled comrades, and to carry them back from suffering and distress to health and happiness."

SCOLDED, GIRL MOTHER TAKES POISON

Mrs. Mary Geagan, twenty-three-year-old mother of two small children, attempted to commit suicide by drinking iodine after her mother upbraided her for staying out all night with a group of friends in a night before the Fourth automobile party.

When the girl swallowed the poison, in the kitchen of her mother's home at No. 70 Palmer street, Roxbury, she fell to the floor screaming with pain. Her mother, hearing her cries from the next room, thought she was merely giving vent to her rage, and did not go in to her for nearly ten minutes.

WILL PROBABLY RECOVER.

Mrs. Geagan is now at the City Hospital, where physicians say she will probably recover from the effects of the poison.

Her husband, James Geagan, was one of the Boston & Albany shopmen who went out on strike last Saturday. They have two children, aged four years and fifteen months.

On the night before the Fourth, the girl's mother said, Mrs. Geagan and a friend, Mary Donnelly of Roxbury, had gone to a dance. On their way home they met several friends in an automobile. In the group were three or four men and a couple of girls.

The motorists suggested that they join them and drive to Nantasket. Mrs. Geagan and Miss Donnelly consented, and the party started out.

AWAY ALL HOLIDAY.

The girl's mother says she did not hear from her daughter until late the next morning. Then, she said, Mary telephoned her that the auto had broken down, and that she would be home later. She finally returned on the evening of the Fourth, and could give no clear account of what had happened.

"I didn't say anything to her at the time," said the mother. "But next night I told her she ought to be ashamed of herself. I said 'You're a married woman and a mother. Why should you go off on all night parties, while your husband's out of work? Hereafter——

"But Mary faced right up, and said she was old enough to pick her own friends, and that she wasn't going to have me dictating to her about what she could do and what she couldn't do. She ended up by saying: 'I'm going to go out for a good time whenever I want to. My husband doesn't care what I do. Then she went into the kitchen."

MANCHESTER COUPLE ELOPE TO WORCESTER

Manchester, N. H., July 6.—The elopement of Miss Agness Holleran of Manchester and James Newton, both of this city, last Sunday, was learned today when Newton telephoned the mother of the bride and informed her of the marriage. The couple went to Worcester and were married without giving a hint of their intentions. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Holleran of No. 220 Spruce street. Newton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Newton of No. 68 North Adams street.

NEWLYWEDS SPEND HONEYMOON IN AIR

San Francisco, July 6.—Mrs. William Kline is one of the few women in this country who has spent her honey moon in the air.

Mrs. Kline, who was recently Miss Margaret Steinberg of Reading, Pa., was engaged to wed William Kline, former naval aviator. The wedding ceremony was performed at the Varney aviation field beside the groom's plane. After the minister had tied the knot, bride and groom got into the plane and "hopped off" for a two weeks' honeymoon tour of southern California by airplane.

HIGH SCHOOL BANS PHOTO OF "FLAPPER"

Eureka, Cal., July 6.—"Miss Gladys Laverty looks too much like an immodest flapper," say Eureka High School authorities and they have hacksawed the picture of the high school beauty from the plate from which it was to be printed in the school paper. SEEKS DEATH AS FAVORITE MUSIC PLAYS

New York, July 6.—Miss Margaret Duckley, twenty-four-year-old actress, swallowed a number of mercury tablets and then went to the Capitol Theatre where she knew her favorite rhapsody "Rapagna" was to be rendered by the orchestra. She had just taken her seat in the balcony when she collapsed.

Miss Duckley told hospital attendants she had "high ideals," but had been unable to live up to them. She will probably die.

Back Bay Women Addicts Credited Mystic Potency to Diamond-Studded Opium Pipe

Chinese Wove Scores of Romantic Adventures Around It and Had Believed It Immune From Seizure.

In yesterday's instalment Miss Ruth Merrill, dainty Federal investigator, who, with Miss Mae Cookson, got the tip which led Dr. Ruth's Federal narcotic agents and District Attorney O'Brien's drug squad through Chinatown in a $100,000 raid, told of white women in Boston's Chinatown and the Back Bay.

"I daresay every hop smoker in America has heard of the diamond-studded opium pipe, and probably those of Asia as well. At any rate, we found that it was frequently a subject of conversation at Back Bay hop parties, and that the white smokers in other cities from coast to coast had heard of it," continued Miss Ruth Merrill.

"It has grown to be a superstition that some ancient Chinese deity protected this particular pipe and those smoking it from arrest. We heard it boasted in Chinatown and in society hop circles alike that no Federal agent had ever been able to capture it, that it had been successfully hidden through scores of raids.

"It was in the apartment of a young Back Bay beauty that I first heard of it. It appeared that there was some great romance connected with it, some tale of love, adventure, gold and a fabled charm which many heard of, but only a few elect heard.

SAW DIAMOND PIPE.

"The young woman in question, who admitted having been on opium orgies in Chinatown itself, knew little of it, and had come to doubt its existence, as we all did, until we came into possession of it.

"It was a student who next told me of it. He said he had heard of it from some girl who had been to Chinatown and actually seen it. But he didn't know its story.

"Then in Chinatown itself I heard the tale, although it was long afterwards, after the raids in which Federal Inspector Fry and Detective Conway, one of Detective Caverly's drug squad, seized the pipe, that I actually saw it and handled it.

"The story was told me by a Chinese, who spoke in as reverend a fashion as though he was speaking of his fore or his ancestors.

RETAINED THE PIPE.

"The bowl, it seemed, was nearly a century old, and the deeply stained stem was little short of that age. It had belonged to the same family since its manufacture, and tradition had it that both bowl and stem were hand made by a high dignitary of the ancient monarchy, who was banished from his native land through some illicit love affair with the wife of a still higher dignitary—some said, of one of the wives of the Emperor himself.

"The pipe, it appeared, was all that accompanied the perpetual exile from China to San Francisco's Chinatown, where the immigrant was almost forced to pawn it for food. Some American opium addict of wealth who heard the circumstances saved the pipe from the ignoble shelves of a pawn shop, by giving alms to its owner, who thereupon made offerings to his loss, and asked not only that the white devil be blessed, but that the gods protect the pipe and all who smoked it.

"By stages the pipe traveled East, always in possession of a member of the same family. The highest boon the particular family could confer was a draw at this pipe, the ivory ends of which became discolored with age and use.

"As the Federal agents became increasingly active in enforcing the anthracoolie laws the pipe had many narrow escapes from capture, and with each one its reputation as beloved of the gods increased.

SAVED WHITE WOMAN.

"Chinese, gathered around a peanut oil lamp, and rolling pills used to chant its praises and its history, until it became the central figure of a Chinese hop epic.

"At some time during its history, it was saved from capture by a young white woman, and thereafter was frequently loaned by its owners to white women for hop parties in their homes.

"As time went on it cracked, as all opium pipe bowls do after long usage. It was repaired by having half an orange skin cemented over it—the customary mode of repairing broken and cracked bowls.

"Then came its crowning achievement. It served in some mysterious and even yet unexplained fashion to save the life of a white woman of wealth. Exactly how this happened is a matter of doubt. There are several Chinese versions.

"One is that the woman, visiting a hop den was attacked by an opium-crazed Chinese armed with a knife and that another Chinese, wielding the heavy stem over his brother's head, saved her. Another is that, hurried by night to the home of a woman at the point of death from lack of the drug, it restored her.

CENTURY OLD.

"At any rate, the story goes, the woman was saved, and in return for her life, she dug the diamonds from a family heirloom and inserted them firmly with cement in the orange skin covering of the pipe bowl.

"It is the only diamond studded pipe bowl on record, and is apparently at least 100 years old," said Inspector Fry.

"How loth the Chinese were to part with it, and their childlike faith in its protective power was shown by the terrific battle they put up to keep it after they recovered their armament that officers should walk into a place where this particular pipe was being smoked," said Miss Merrill.

"During the six big raids, the only battle was over this pipe. The Chinese holding it sprang through a window to a fire escape in an attempt to escape and when Detective Conway followed him put up a terrible fight, while Inspector Fry held off two other Chinese who were attempting to foil the officer with the century-old pipe.

"When the battle was won by the authorities and word went through Chinatown that the diamond-studded pipe was in possession of the law, I actually saw tears roll down the cheeks of several aged Chinese. To say there was moaning throughout Chinatown is simply to tell without exaggeration what we observed in that district after news of the pipe's capture went abroad."

MYSTIC QUALITY.

"The pipe's capture must have been almost as heavy a blow to certain Back Bay hop parties," said Miss Mae Cookson, "for I learned that in those circles, whose superstitions are almost as many as those of the Chinese themselves, the yen shee, or cooked opium scraped from this diamond-studded bowl with a yen sheegyer, was regarded as having some mystic quality not possessed even by the finest imported gum opium.

"And from what I learned I am convinced that this very pipe, the only one of its kind in the United States so far as we can learn, had made more than one visit to Boston's Back Bay district. Indeed, I understand that at one very select hop party this pipe, presented to each smoker in turn by an elaborately costumed Chinese, served as an appetizer for a prolonged orgy."

The crossing was unguarded, according to the police.

TRAIN HOLDS UP FLEEING MAN

Natick, July 6.—A passing train held up Joseph Feloni of No. 38 Harrison street long enough for Chief Evans to arrest him on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon upon Thomas A. Leyden of Washington avenue. The chief had chased Feloni to the crossing from South street.

WILL TRY TO BEAT AMUNDSEN TO POLE

Spitzbergen, Norway, July 6.—Major Tryggve Gran, Norwegian adventurer, seeks to beat Captain Roald Amundsen to the North Pole, using an airplane to reach his objective. He aimed at secrecy to bar competition, and is making his start from here. Major Gran did not know of Amundsen's plans, and has been in the Far North country since early in May. His route carries him in just the opposite direction that the Amundsen party will travel.

Stops Pain Instantly

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in two forms—a colorless, clear liquid (one drop does it!) and in extra thin plasters. Use whichever form you prefer, plasters or the liquid—the action is the same. Safe, gentle. Made in a world-famed laboratory. Sold by all druggists.

PRAISES BENEFITS OF CITIZENS' CAMP

Brigadier-General M. L. Hersey, commanding the coast artillery district, and also in charge of the Citizens' Military Training Camp, challenges any camp in America today for young men to compare with the camp for young men which will open in August at Camp Devens.

"Parents should be made acquainted with this fact that the army is giving something this Summer which other camps ask a good sum for," he says.

SMILE WINS HER HUSBAND AND FORTUNE

New York, July 6.—The fetching smile which won Carrol McComas $3,000,000 has won her a husband.

Walter J. Enright, well-known artist, obtained a license to wed the musical comedy star. The rites will be solemnized next month.

Miss McComas, who is the daughter of Judge C. C. McComas of Los Angeles, was made the sole beneficiary in the will of Howard J. Flannery, wealthy Pittsburgh man to whom she had once been engaged. Mr. Flannery died last year.

Mr. Enright was divorced from his first wife at Reno, Nev., several years ago. He is forty-five years old.

Bova, after the armistice, was transferred to Germany with the Army of Occupation. He returned several months ago. It was then he met Marie. Friends say it was love at first sight.

DOCTORS PROBE THEORIES OF OSTEOPATHY

An investigation of the osteopathic theory by the Massachusetts Medical Society and Harvard Medical School is under way at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, an allopathic institution.

Medical men have always insisted that osteopathy is not a cure-all for the majority of diseases.

The present probe, with its experiments on patients, is a direct result of the osteopathic convention held here last year, when the Massachusetts Medical Society appointed a committee to investigate osteopathy. Dr. Channing Frothingham is chairman of this committee.

DAIL EIREANN BARES HORRORS OF ULSTER CIVIL WAR

22,000 HOMELESS, 425 DEAD, LAID TO ORANGE POGROMS

The horror of civil war in Belfast, Ireland, is contained in figures and latest weekly Irish bulletin of the Dail Eireann. It shows 425 deaths and 1,765 persons wounded for one year in that city alone. It reveals the cries of "Papist" and assaults on unarmed Catholics.

Figures show that Orange mobs have driven 8,586 Catholics from their employment and 22,560 from their homes. From May 21 to June 21 casualties in Belfast were 28 Catholics killed, 91 wounded, while 8 Protestants were slain and 24 wounded. Many of the "killers" are employed by the English government, according to the report.

More than 2,000 are now homeless in Belfast. Significant is this statement in the bulletin: "This list of wounded only includes gunshot and bomb wounds. Very many of those kicked almost into pulp in the streets and left for dead are not included."

The bulletin follows:

Catholics driven from their employment by Orange mobs, 8,586; number of Catholics driven from their homes, 22,560. This includes 600 families representing about 2,500 persons driven out of their homes by Orange bombers, incendiaries and gunmen in broad daylight. Now Homeless in Belfast, over 5,000.

From May 21 to June 17 the casualties are:

	Catholics.	Protestants.
Killed	28	8
Wounded	91	24

The religion in one or two of these cases has not been verified. It is well to bear in mind that the Catholic minority are only 25 per cent. of the population of Belfast. The male Catholic population between the ages of sixteen and sixty is estimated at 20,000. These are all unarmed. It is a penal offence for any of these to carry arms.

"SPECIALS" PLAN MURDERS.

There are over 5,000 "Specials" in Belfast. These are armed, equipped and paid for by England. They are there solely for the protection of the people of Belfast, Catholics as well as Protestants. These "Specials" have not brought to justice one criminal for the 425 murders; the 1,764 woundings; the 2,000 attempts at murder; the 8,586 expulsions from their employment, or the 22,560 expulsions from their homes of the helpless minority whom they are supposed to protect.

On the contrary, we have affidavits showing that many of the most horrible of the murders in Belfast were planned and carried out by those now employed by their superiors. Far from assisting in the discovery of criminals they have prevented discovery by actively opposing inquiries which should have been held in compliance with Clause 5 of the Collins-Craig Pact.

The pretense that the pogrom was a reprisal for the shooting of Colonel Smyth in Cork cannot be maintained. The first pogrom in Derry occurred weeks before that event. There has never been any attempts to single out Republicans for reprisals. Catholics have been attacked indiscriminately. Those who attacked the working women's hostel at Bangor knew they were not attacking Sinn Feiners. The Falls Road (Catholic district of Belfast) is shot into every night by specials and Orange snipers. Yet the Falls Road has never been a Sinn Fein area. It returned Mr. Joseph Devlin, M. P., in 1918 and 1921.

The pogroms have never been spontaneous.

THROWN IN CHANNEL.

On Wednesday, July 21, 1920, during the dinner hour, the shipyard workers in Belfast were harangued by a man from Bangor named McKay, and a worker from Derry who told them the Catholics had all the best jobs, that they had fought in France walked the streets. These speakers told the revolver men at the meeting they knew what to do with the PAPISTS. Following on this they threw thirty of them into the Musgrave Channel. Some of these were drowned.

After seventeen Catholics had been killed and over 100 wounded (during the first three days of the pogrom), several thousand expelled from their work, and a church and a convent partially wrecked, the Unionist Lord Mayor Coates refused to exercise the powers inherent in his office to call a special meeting of the Corporation to devise means of protecting the citizens and ending the pogrom.

Professor Eoin MacNeill:

"The pogrom has been in contemplation since long before the war. Whenever civil war was mentioned by Unionist speakers the thing they contemplated was this pogrom—that is, a murderous drive of Catholics from the six counties in order to create what British politicians called a homogeneous Ulster."

A threat to this effect was uttered at the Buckingham Palace Conference in July, 1914.

These pogroms must be bracketed with those which occurred preparatory to the Act of Union, at the time of the Disestablishment of the Irish Protestant Church, at the time of the Gladstone Home Rule Bill in 1886, and at the time of the Asquith Home Rule bill in 1912.

The London Daily Telegraph, the Morning Post, Times, Daily News and Manchester Guardian all admitted on July 22, 1920, that the riots were organized at a meeting of Unionists and began by unprovoked attacks by Orange workers on Nationalists.

BRITISH PLAN FAILED.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, writing in the Sunday Times on July 25, "deeply deplores the fighting in Belfast." He says the outbreak shows that one of the main difficulties in the Irish problem "is that Ireland will split among themselves."

The outbreak was designed for this purpose.

The following are a few facts which help to set forth the outstanding incidents of the Pogrom:

Late in 1918 a private Orange convention was held in Belfast. Mr. T. Moles pointed out the necessity of departing from the solemn league and covenant owing to the fact that in the nine counties of Ulster there were nearly as many Catholics as Protestants, and that it was likely that a Parliament returned by the population of the nine counties would return a majority of Nationalists. It was decided to give up the three counties of Donegal, Cavan and Fermanagh so as to insure solidarity of Unionist majority in the Northern Parliament.

The British government, in order to break the solidarity of Sinn Fein in three-quarters of Ireland, introduced proportional representation. This failed to have the desired effect. Urban elections held January 1920, and rural elections June, 1920. Sinn Fein improved position with proportional representation in three-quarters of the country, but the new system broke solidarity of Unionism in six counties.

Orange Party in Six Counties decide to create homogeneity in their area by evacuation of Catholic population.

From 12th to 20th of July, 1920, a series of letters appeared in the Belfast Unionist Press showing alarm at the alleged menacing growth of Catholicism in North-East Ulster.

July 21, 1920. Orange Pogrom against Catholics and Nationalists begins. Seven thousand eight hundred Catholics driven from their employment, and Catholics murdered.

This has continued with increasing intensity until this day.

"It is common knowledge in Belfast, and frequently admitted by individual Unionists that plans were matured at least two months ago to drive all Home Rule workmen in the shipyards out of their employment."

RED CROSS NURSE IS WRECK HEROINE

Atlantic City, July 6.—Miss Mary W. Cotteral, a Red Cross nurse, was one of the first persons to answer the call for help, following the train wreck near here, when eight persons were killed and many injured. The nurse gave first aid to the injured and also helped in the rescue work. She dug through the mass of wreckage in the search for bodies of dead and injured.

The Nation Is NOW Voting

ON THE TWO RED-HOT QUESTIONS

PROHIBITION

Enforcement?
Modification?
Repeal?

AND THE

FEDERAL BONUS

For All Soldiers and Sailors
Who Wore the Uniform
During the World War?

The Literary Digest, in a Nation-Wide Poll, Has Mailed Individual Secret Ballots to More than TEN MILLION VOTERS asking them whether they Favor a DRY, MOIST, or WET Policy, and whether they are FOR or AGAINST the BONUS

A STARTLING REVELATION

OF THE REAL WILL OF THE PEOPLE

Which will point, in advance of election, to the DEFEAT or VICTORY of many Candidates

INDIVIDUAL SECRET BALLOTS have been mailed to more than TEN MILLION MEN AND WOMEN VOTERS throughout the United States. Every vote cast will express the free, uninfluenced, secret preference of the voter, unknown to anyone but himself or herself. Every voter who receives one of these ballots is urged to mark and mail it at once. Whichever policy on Prohibition and the Soldiers' Bonus you favor, be sure to back it now by your vote, because your vote will help to strengthen your side in determining the final policy.

ALL CLASSES OF VOTERS in all States and all communities in the Nation are being polled with complete impartiality. They include business men, merchants, farmers, manufacturers, railroad employees, bankers, clerks, builders, contractors, superintendents, managers, carpenters, plasterers, plumbers, painters, mechanics, printers, miners, steel-workers, workers in every trade and branch of industry, both union and non-union, professional men and women of all classes, including lawyers, doctors, clergymen, authors, actors, newspaper men, dentists, engineers, educators, architects, musicians, etc., in short, all the classes of men and women who make up the voting population in all parts of the country. NO PROPAGANDA OF ANY KIND is connected with this great National Poll of the American people. The Literary Digest is always strictly non-partizan and impartial on all controversial questions. It records the facts and the opinions of all parties and all classes. That is why it has come to be regarded by millions of Americans as the one representative and indispensable periodical record of all phases of American life.

HERE IS A COPY OF THE SECRET BALLOT

(This copy is printed here for information only, and will not be accepted in the voting)

SECRET BALLOT on PROHIBITION and SOLDIERS' BONUS

No Signature—No Condition—No Obligation—Mark and Mail at once

PROHIBITION: (Put a cross (x) in the square only opposite the policy you favor)

1. Do you favor the continuance and strict enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and Volstead Law?		DRY
2. Do you favor a modification of the Volstead Law to permit light wines and beers?		MOIST
3. Do you favor a repeal of the Prohibition Amendment?		WET

SOLDIERS' BONUS: (Put a cross (x) in the square under "Yes" or No")

	YES	NO
Do you favor a Federal Bonus for all American Soldiers and Sailors who wore the Uniform during the World War?

It Is Important to Mark and Return This Ballot Immediately

MILLIONS OF CITIZENS are discussing these two questions with intense feeling. Both questions have a personal interest to every man and woman, and child in the United States, and will be controlling factors in the coming Congressional elections in many States. This Nation-wide Poll, now being taken by THE LITERARY DIGEST, will reveal, in advance of the election, how the majority of the citizens stand on these questions. The result is everywhere eagerly awaited.

EVERY WEEK FROM EVERY STATE IN THE UNION

The results will appear in THE LITERARY DIGEST. All the figures will be given in detail and will be analyzed and explained, State by State, until the poll in completed. The first announcement will be in the July 8th issue. These reports will have unique and decisive interest for political leaders, the press, and citizens of the whole country. DIGEST readers, of course, will get them first and in the most complete detail.

At the same time, and all through the year, THE LITERARY DIGEST will be gathering carefully and reporting all the facts and opinions on all sides bearing upon all the great problems and issues which are being discussed and which must be settled by the American people. THE LITERARY DIGEST is wonderfully equipped for this service by a system built up at great expense through many years of careful work, and reaching into thousands of newspaper and periodical offices in all parts of the world. The reader can depend upon THE LITERARY DIGEST with absolute certainty as it reveals, from week to week, free from all prejudice and partizanship, the real state of the Nation's mind, the real facts affecting all issues, and the progress of all the great problems toward settlement.

SOPHIE LYONS, NOTED CROOK, IS ROBBED

Detroit, July 6.—A few finger prints are the only clues police have to the burglar who broke into the home of Sophie Lyons Burke, seventy-six years old, taking diamonds and money valued at from $10,000 to $15,000.

Mrs. Burke, perhaps better known as Sophie Lyons, one-time famous international crook, who since has reformed and now spends most of her time and money in providing comforts for the inmates of prisons and jails, had spent the Fourth at Put-In Bay. She found her home ransacked when she returned.

Mrs. Burke was born in New York where she was taught to be a pickpocket while yet a child. Her attitude towards those who still follow the zig-zag path of her former life, stood the acid test when she calmly told the police that she would refuse to prosecute the burglars.

Movie Stirs Youth to Shoot Self With Blank in Theatre

By Universal Service.

Middletown, N. Y., July 6.—While a picture show was being given in the Stratton Theatre, George Murray, nine years old, son of Mrs. Ella Murray of this city, shot himself in the head with a pistol loaded with a blank cartridge, inflicting a slight wound.

According to the boy's story, the movie gripped him so that in his mind he was performing the act of the leading character and, becoming excited, discharged the pistol.

He will recover.

BOMBS WRECK HOME OF WETS' ENEMY

Akron, O., July 6.—Two dynamite bombs partially wrecked the home of Police Lieutenant Frank McGuire early today. Hootleggers, pursued by Lieutenant McGuire and his squad, are believed responsible.

Windows were shattered in four houses in the immediate neighborhood. Lieutenant McGuire, his wife and daughter and Mrs. McGuire's parents were asleep in the house. Twenty-penny spikes, placed in both bombs, were found embedded in the homes of Lieutenant McGuire and his nearest neighbor following the explosion.

6 AUTOISTS, 1 BLIND, HURT IN COLLISION

Springfield, July 6.—Six persons, one of them a blind boy, were injured when two automobiles skidded on the wet pavement and collided on Boston road near the City Almshouse.

Harold Reither, six years old, blind son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Reither of Huntings-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., was thrown from his car to the street, receiving severe cuts and bruises. Both of his parents were cut and bruised, and Miss Vesta Wahlstrain, riding with them, was slightly injured. The occupants of the other machine, Miss Elizabeth M. Scannell and Glenn M. Ballard, received scalp wounds and contusions of the body.

Betty Alden Names Six Prettiest Girls Among Boston's Smart Set

By BETTY ALDEN.

WHEN someone asked me the other day, "who are the six most interesting people in Boston society?" I wasn't surprised in the least. Because just at present one hears so much about those "twelve most famous this" and "twelve most famous that" lists, that the question seemed apropos.

But when I sat down and bethought me: "who are the six most interesting people in Boston society? I decided that it all depended upon what you called interesting. You might be interesting because you acted well, or handled a horse neatly, or wrote a clever book, or danced to perfection, or conversed brilliantly, or managed charity events successfully, or wore your clothes with ultra smartness.

And then again you might be interesting because you were pretty. For no matter how uninteresting a member of the fair sex may be otherwise, her beauty alone warrants her being catalogued as "interesting." Because prettiness always does interest, doesn't it?

And so I decided to take up a group of six each day in an attempt to find out "who's who" in Boston society and why.

WHEN my inquirer next put the question, "Well, who are the six prettiest girls in Boston society?" I just naturally had to get busy. I asked a good many people what they thought (so as to be perfectly neutral) and thereby procured the following list, each member of which seems representative of her own particular type:

Those who admire brunettes could hardly wish to find a more attractive person than Miss Helene Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Amory Sullivan of Mt. Vernon street. She is a tall, slender girl, with rather an elfin look upon her face, which is framed with softly-waving dark brown hair. Her deep brown eyes, almost almond-shaped, are most expressive and lend no end of charm to her face. Gowned in turquoise blue crepe and a corn-color hat, she made the daintiest of bridesmaids at the recent ceremony which transformed Miss Katherine Winslow into the bride of young Louis B. McCagg, Jr.

In vivid contrast is the perfect blonde beauty of Miss Edith Bremer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Parker Bremer of Marlboro street, whose crown of golden hair never fails to arouse murmurs of admiration wherever she goes. She has the bluest of eyes, and like Miss Sullivan, she is rather tall.

Then there's Elizabeth Caswell, daughter of Mrs. John Caswell of Pride's Crossing, whose almost exotic beauty never fails to fascinate. Her deep brown eyes contrast strikingly with the soft light hair which frames her delicate face. Tall and slim, she has something fragile and flower-like about her.

Petite and dainty is Miss Mary Hall, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Linzee Hall, introduced her to society last Fall. And certainly was Mary one of the most widely-feted "debbies," with her masses of wavy brown hair, laughing gray eyes and flashing teeth. As small as she is dainty, and as dainty as she is pretty, Mary Hall surely has more than her share of beauty.

Distinctly of the Junonesque type is Miss Elinor Jackson, daughter of Mrs. James M. Jackson of Beacon street, who was one of the noted beauties of her year. Of tall and stately build, Miss Jackson is a remarkably handsome girl. Her dark hair, black eyes and very vivid coloring all help to heighten her notable charm. When the Vincent Club presented "Now and Then" last April, Miss Jackson was a member of the famous "drill," which is always one of the snappiest features of the Vincent Club's annual show.

With features of rather a classic cut, Miss Alice Onderdonk is quite one of the prettiest girls of Boston's smart set. A most aristocratic face is hers, with its finely chiseled features. Her hair is brown, her eyes gray, and her complexion a creamy pink and white. Slim, of medium build, she wears her clothes to perfection. The last time I saw her was at the polo tournament held at "Prince mere," when she wore a smart frock of apricot crepe, the large ermine scarf lending an unusual touch to her costume, which was completed by the small white hat she wore.

MISS HELENE SULLIVAN

A tall, slender brunette is Miss Helene Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Amory Sullivan of Mt. Vernon street, who is well entitled to beauty honors.

Question Box for Radio Fans

E. C. Wellesley—The serial you are thinking of is probably the "Condenser serial," recently announced by the Bureau of Standards. In accordance with the usual policy, the details of this serial will not be made public until a complete report can be prepared. It consists practically of two thin plates of steel, about two feet square, on a piece of pyrex glass about two millimeters thickness. Tests have shown this device to be very successful. Complete details will appear in this paper just as soon as they are available.

A. J. K., Hyde Park—The estimation of wave length is nearly impossible without a wave-meter. I should say that roughly your set would tune in from 200 to 400 metres. A variable condenser in series shortens the wave length, and in shunt increases the wave length.

M. L. T., Providence—Honeycomb coils are made up to size L-1,500, which means 1,500 turns, and an inductance of about 175 millihenries. These large coils would be suitable for the high inductances required in the Armstrong circuit, but they are difficult to get locally. For the other three coils you need L-85's or L-50's. The tickler is better in the larger size.

E. H., Somerville—Without seeing a diagram of your hook-up, it is impossible to say accurately what is the matter. If you are using a standard hook-up properly connected, the trouble is probably in your crystal. Try another crystal and go over your connections to see that everything is O. K.

GLASS REVOLVER IN PRISONER'S POCKET

A glass revolver, with the aroma of liquor about it, was found by the police in the pocket of Frank Mulhern, twenty years old, of Lowell, when he was arrested by Police Inspectors Felten and Egan on a default warrant. Mulhern was arrested March 25 charged with the larceny of a pocketbook containing $80 from Edward F. Morse of Lowell. The police have been looking for him since he defaulted.

QUITS ARMY TO BECOME LAWYER

Studying law for half an hour daily for four years, when others were talking, made Army Field Clerk Edward Francis Dalton of the First Corps Area a full fledged lawyer.

He has just received his degree of LL. B. from a Boston law school and has resigned from the army to practice law in this city.

CAPTAIN WOUNDED AT SEA BY BULLET

Captain Matthews of the steamer Miraflores, which docked here early this week, is in a hospital suffering from a bullet wound which he received while at sea. Although one of the seamen on the Miraflores claims that the captain shot himself during a struggle which followed the discovery of four stowaways, officials of the steamship company declare the shooting occurred while he was loading a gun, and was accidental.

CLEARING WAY TO SETTLE STRIKE AT AMOSKEAG

By CHARLES O. POWER.

Manchester, N. H., July 6.—Underneath the surface there are indications of smooth currents in the great textile strike in this city.

While probably there will not be a conference of the mill officials and the committee of strikers appointed to consider propositions of settlement this week, the chances are that they will get together the first part of next week.

It is practically decided that the citizens committee of ten will sit in at the conference and act in conjunction with the representatives of the Amoskeag Company and the strikers. The citizens' committee will act in an advisory capacity and also speak the point of view of the community of Manchester.

CLEARING AWAY PREJUDICE.

One reason for the delay in calling the conference is the absence from the city of members of the citizens' committee. Delay on that ground is agreeable to the strike leaders, as they are anxious to accord the utmost courtesy to the prominent men who have shown active interest in the work of bringing about a return to industrial peace in Manchester on terms that will be acceptable to the textile workers and make for progress toward normal business conditions in the stores.

But there is the best of reasons for believing that some things are being done by factors influential in the inner circles of Amoskeag, and other things through strong connections with Amoskeag, that will have an important bearing upon the work of the conference and the ultimate result of the deliberations.

Propositions acceptable to both parties may not be born at the first meeting nor the second, but it is certain that the decks will be cleared of much prejudice before the appointed time so that the proceedings will not be delayed or hampered by misunderstandings of the vital issues involved in a settlement.

BISHOP TO CO-OPERATE.

Rt. Rev. George Guertin, Bishop of Manchester, has replied, through the chancellor of the diocese, to the resolution adopted by the executive committee of the strikers inviting him to consider the strike situation with a committee, that he will be pleased to do so within a few days.

This is heartening to the strike leaders as they are anxious to submit the details of their side of the case to the Bishop and receive his advice. They believe that his active public interest in their cause would be most helpful in solving the strike problem right.

Ten years ago the ordinary cow in this State was assessed for $30. Today the assessed valuation of the same kind of cow is $90. That means the farmer's cow tax has increased 166 per cent. in a decade.

In the same period the average valuation of mill property has increased seven per cent. And that is just one instance why the thinking farmers of New Hampshire are not going to be caught again by the old story that it is their political duty as thrifty citizens to vote against progressive labor legislation.

Within the next two weeks there will be a meeting in Concord of the executive committee of the New Hampshire Civic Association, an organization of farmers and business and professional men, formed quietly recently for the purpose of investigating conditions whose need of reform is self-evident. The moving spirit in this movement is Governor Robert P. Bass of Peterborough.

Associated with him are such men as Rolland H. Spaulding, former governor; Ernest M. Hopkins, president of Dartmouth; Charles W. Tobey, former speaker of the House R. D. Paine, George A. Wood, Allen Hollis, Dr. John M. Gile, John R. McLane, William Savarcool, Ralph D. Hetzel and H. N. Spaulding. As the organization grows the membership of this executive committee will be enlarged and the scope of the organization extended.

The textile strike situation, the 48-hour bill and the question of more equitable taxation laws will be among the more important features for discussion at the first meeting in Concord. Future meetings, it is understood, will be held in various sections of the State on the open forum plan.

LIGHT ON CANDIDATES.

Facts, publicity and legislative petitions for remedial laws will be the weapons favored by the association in dealing with matters affecting the rights of communities, the prosperity of industries, decent wages and environment for workers and a shifting of the tax burden from the backs of the farming element. It is said that the records and character of candidates for public offices will be scrutinized carefully, treated to allopathic doses of publicity, and held up to the voters in their true light so that they know how to vote an honest men should.

The platform of the association is as follows:

"Believing that the formation of sound public sentiment concerning social, industrial and political conditions has been greatly retarded by indifference and lack of understanding, the New Hampshire Civic Association aims, through meetings and discussions, to ascertain the vital facts pertaining to these matters, and to reach and make known conclusions on particular issues as they arise, to the end that concerted constructive action thereon may be secured.

"All citizens of the State interested in and sympathetic to these purposes will be welcomed to membership in the association."

Robert Jackson of Concord, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, is making a tour of the state, studying popular sentiment. He says conditions never looked brighter for his party. It may be a secret, but if it is, it may as well be told now as anytime, because it is bound to come out in a few weeks anyway, and that is that half a dozen of the finest women in the State have promised Chairman Jackson that they are going to be elected to the Legislature to fight for progressive measures.

"Is the 48-hour question going to be much of an issue?" I asked the Democratic leader.

"Is it? You just bet it is. It's going to be one of the big burning issues of the campaign," he declared. "The Democratic party is for it, and men who aspire for the party nominations for the Legislature must be for it. The strikes have brought out a strong sentiment for a 48-hour law all over the State. The people are anxious to eliminate one of the most vexing causes of textile troubles by fixing the question of working hours by statute.

TAXATION BOTHERS FARMERS.

"Taxation is another burning issue. The way the farmers have suffered from the inequalities of the taxation system of this State finally has aroused them and they are no longer going to have the wool pulled over their eyes by politicians whose business is the manipulating of legislation to suit the wishes of the big corporations."

It is very significant that a number of the employes of the Manchester Traction Light & Power Company have announced their intentions of being candidates for legislative nominations.

This is the way the local executive committee answers the charge made by Senator George H. Moses that James H. Starr, vice-president of the United Textile Workers of America, who is the directing genius of the strike, is an "imported labor agitator who has given ill advised counsel to the strikers:"

"We have been given excellent counsel during the past 20 weeks of the strike. We feel that we have not been ill advised at any time. Brother Starr, in handling such situations as he has been forced to handle, has kept law and order continually to the forefront. If it were not for a man like him the red flag would now be waving over Manchester."

The Senator advised Mr. Starr to go back to Paterson, N. J., where he lives and work for shorter hours for textile workers there. Mr. Starr, in reply, tells Senator Moses that 45,000 silk operatives in New Jersey are working a 44-hour week schedule.

It seems to be the general opinion, even among Senator Moses' friends, that Mr. Starr's dignified rejoinder completely discredited the senator's attack and that the local strike committee told the truth when it credited Mr. Starr with being a steady and sterling influence for the prevention of violence and probable bloodshed.

San Francisco, July 6.—"India will get her freedom," says Syud Hossain, noted orator and journalist. Mr. Hossain came to this country to attend the Limitation of Armament Conference and has come here to complete some work with India's movement for freedom.

BANDIT ROBS WOMAN; ESCAPES FROM MOB

A daring hold-up man forced his way into a Chelsea woman's house, robbed her of a sum of money at the point of a revolver, and escaped after being chased for several blocks by a mob.

The man entered the home of Mrs. Fannie Schultz, at No. 49 Fifth street, Chelsea. Aiming a revolver at Mrs. Schultz's head he forced her into a closet, where he robbed her of $5 and escaped through a window.

Shortly afterward he encountered Mrs. Alice Newman of No. 52 Congress avenue in the rear of her home. When he tried to rob her she grappled with him and he fled, dropping a loaded revolver and a quantity of jewelry.

Tone, Volume and Worth Far in Excess of Its Price

If you were asked to make your own price on this piano after having heard it played and having examined it thoroughly you would, in plain justice to this instrument, name a price higher than $545; even though you had only the slightest sense of piano values.

Takes no more space than your upright when posed in corner of music room.

STAND BY WHILE PRISONER DROWNS

The mystery surrounding the drowning of Private Thomas McLaughlin at Fort Strong reported at the headquarters of the First Corps Area, will be investigated by a board of inquiry, consisting of: Majors W. J. Hickok, C. A. C.; E. E. Maynard, N. C.; Captains J. W. Barker, C. A. C.; W. R. Wheeler, Inf.

McLaughlin was a general prisoner and was soon to be discharged. While working at the dock of the fort, he accidentally, it is claimed, fell into the water and was drowned.

No one went to his rescue, though several enlisted men were standing by and it is claimed that no great effort was made to save him, though he rose to the surface of the water once.

AIR LINE FROM BOSTON TO VIRGINIA

Atlantic City, N. J., July 6—Coincident with the opening of a 74-minute airplane service between Atlantic City and New York, Major Bernard L. Smith, general manager of the Aero-Marine Airways, Inc., announced today that a regular aerial passenger line from Boston to Norfolk, Va., would be established within thirty days.

The feature of the Boston-Norfolk line will be the fact that the flight will be made entirely over the water, Major Smith said:

"Nothing more serious can happen in these flights than an enforced landing which presents no difficulties when it is always possible to land on water.

"The necessity of searching for a suitable landing place, which affords one of the greatest dangers of flights over land, is thus done away with. Flying boats can safely make their trips in any but the most severe weather.

"Another factor which adds to the safety of flight over water is that pilots can fly low. Passenger flying boats are rarely operated at a greater altitude than 150 to 200 feet, while the usual altitude is much less.

"With the Atlantic City-New York service in operation, we will now turn our attention to an Atlantic coast line which will start at Boston and end at Norfolk."

MARKS BIG EPOCH.

It is expected that the Boston-Norfolk line when developed will mark one of the biggest epochs in this country in commercial aviation. While several Atlantic coast lines have been started in the past, they did not operate for any length of time. With the danger of accident minimized by making the trip entirely over water, it is predicted that a step will have been taken in getting the United States on an equal basis with Europe in commercial aviation.

The flights from Atlantic City to New York and vice versa are made in seventy-five minutes as compared to three hours train time. Three machines are in use on this route, two in active service and one in reserve.

Lace moves us delightfully against the garden party background that one is glad Madeleine chooses it for a slender flounced frock that suggests such an occasion. The frock is of cream net and cream lace over a mauve slip, and flat mauve satin roses are placed at the left side of the girdle.

Drecol designs a frock of closely patterned lace with a sleeve arrangement that gives the appearance of being a cape. Large jeweled buttons are placed on each side of the front lace panel at the waistline.

BOSTON EXPRESS AFIRE IN NEW YORK TUNNEL

The Boston-bound midnight express from New York was delayed by a fire in the electric engine. The fire started in the Park avenue cut, New York city, while the train was thirty-five feet below the street level. The smoke caused a near-panic on the train. The engineer, William J. Sullivan, put the blaze out before fire apparatus arrived.

SEEKS TO CURE FLAPPER WALK BY SCIENCE

Chicago, July 6.—With the aid of science Colonel George Fabyan, multi-millionaire "of a thousand interests," will seek to abolish the debutante slouch and the flapper walk.

Colonel Fabyan today announced the founding of a $100,000 laboratory on his Fox River estate, near Geneva, where he and his assistants will endeavor to find out what is wrong with the human body, especially the female figure.

"Woman should be the apotheosis of grace," Colonel Fabyan declared, "but isn't.

"Girls grow up without the slightest idea of how to walk. They don't know how to breathe correctly. Their carriage is not only ridiculous, but criminal."

Miss Mary Todd of New York, an exponent of physical culture, will direct the work of his laboratory, Colonel Fabyan said.

In his laboratory, where he has already installed Miss Todd, the multi-millionaire has collected a sort of chamber of horrors, examples of what flappers will grow into if they persist in throwing their shoulders forward and trying to imitate a question mark.

These grisly specimens consist of spinal columns taken from the skeletons of girls who slouched. They are crooked and deformed.

"Why, the majority of us are just pitiful contraptions of flesh and bones. The average man knows no more about the human anatomy than about the Einstein theory," Colonel Fabyan said.

He has been experimenting with some of the young women on his estate and improvement in their carriage has been marvelous, he said.

"Nature never intended us to walk upright," said Colonel Fabyan.

"Man started out as a wiggling snake and then developed into a tadpole. In some way he acquired shoulders, then grew into an ape and began walking on his hind legs. But the human stomach is intended to be carried horizontally.

"So as we walk horizontally, we ought to do it gracefully—and I believe it's my mission to correct the slouching posture and make it disappear, just like the wasp-like waist has passed away."

LODGE IS SCORED BY EQUAL RIGHTS

Delegates to the convention of the National Equal Rights League at a meeting in the Twelfth Baptist Church at Shawmut, bitterly criticized Senator Lodge for his dilatory handling of the Dyer Anti-Lynching bill.

Dr. Julia P. H. Coleman said:

"The Senator from Massachusetts tried to hold the bill in committee for foolish and frivolous reasons. Then he pushed the bill off to Senator Borah."

The Rev. M. A. N. Shaw, pastor of the church and a national figure in the league, advocated the subscription by the colored people of America of $1,000,000 for a fund to put over, as he expressed it, the proper legislation. He referred to bond drives conducted by the Irish and Jews as precedents. "Money and brains" are the things that this nation respects," he said.

The 200 delegates were welcomed to Boston by Joshua H. Jones, representing the Mayor. It is planned to hold an anti-lynching parade today, and this evening Governor Cox will address them in Faneuil Hall.

TEN PAY DAYS FOR TEACHERS

SAYS WARD WAS NOT NORMAL AT TIME

By Associated Press.

New York, July 6.—Walter A. Ward wealthy baker's son charged with the murder of Clarence Peters of Haverhill, Mass., was not normal before the killing according to testimony of his brother, Ralph C. Ward, before the Westchester County Grand Jury, made public today.

The minutes of the Grand Jury were turned over to Ward's lawyers to assist counsel in the next term of Dist. Attorney Weeks.

When asked by the jury if the brother was of good health, Ralph Ward replied, according to the testimony:

"No, I don't think he was at least he wasn't normal."

Mrs. Ward, wife of the accused, whose test story also was given public, threw light on a newspaper story written by Clarence Vanderlip, Jr., to the effect that Ward, after being lodged in jail had visited his home one night before being released on bail.

In denying the story she told the jury that the young millionaire reporter had tried to interview her on a west-bound train.

She said Vanderlip sent in his card, asking if he could see her because he was in great sympathy with her. She said he begged very insistent upon seeing her, but she positively refused to see him.

Before the Grand Jury was discharged it handed up a presentment denying Vanderlip's story.

WED AFTER 3-YEAR MAIL COURTSHIP

North Brookfield, July 6.—Miss Bessie Hammond of this town and George H. Capes of Geneva, N. Y., ended a three year acquaintance by mail with a rapid fire 48 hour courtship and marriage. The couple became acquainted in Springfield three years ago when Capes visited relatives in Springfield for whom Miss Ha mond was working. Upon returning to the west Capes corresponded with Miss Hammond for a time, then ceased writing. Recently he came to Springfield and renewed the acquaintance. Monday he left for North Brookfield and Tuesday they were married by the Rev. Mr. Hammond, father of the bride.

Bubonic Plague Takes Toll

Hong Chow, China, June 15.—Eight cases, which would have been unrecognized a year ago, have been reported in this district during the last week. Of the victims, six have died.

Heart of the Navy Right! Buddy to See Dying Mother!

Somewhere between Boston and Buffalo a sailor is speeding westward. His mother is dying in San Francisco. The telegram reached him as his ship, the U. S. S. Maryland, docked at Charlestown.

The sailor was without funds. Pay day was distant. He would not ask for money. But gobs stick to one another.

The matter reached the ears of Captain Sellers of the Maryland. He dropped a twenty-dollar bill into a hat. The hat went all over the ship.

Soon a sick, waiting mother will see her boy, possibly for the last time, because his "buddies" have real hearts beating beneath their jackets.

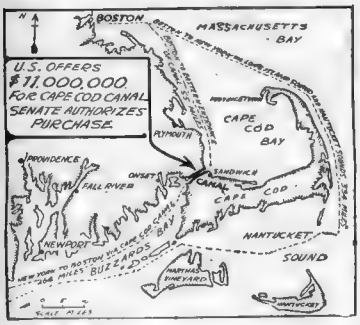
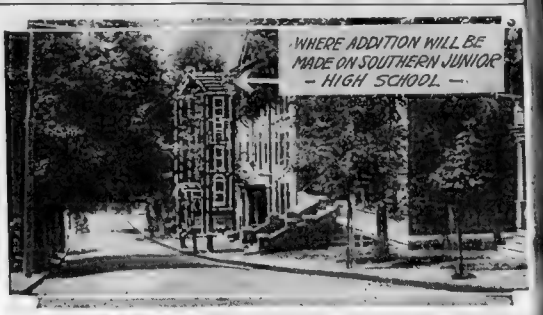
ENTIRE FAMILY HURT WHEN AUTO TURNS TURTLE IN READING

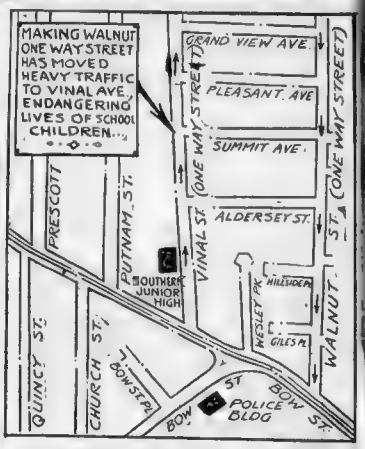
ENTIRE FAMILY INjured when auto turns turtle on wet pavement! Max Cohen (above in insert) of No. 309 Bryant street, Malden, while driving with his wife and children up a grade on North Main street, Reading, tried to pass another autoist and his car lurched off the road and turned turtle. Although they were all thrown out, Mrs. Cohen was the most seriously hurt. She was removed to the Winchester Hospital. At left are Cohen's children, who suffered minor injuries

DIDJA HEAR THE "I do's." Boston radio fans? No!—Well then get tuned up 'cause we're gonna let you in on the first radio wedding. Miss Mabel Brady, above, is listening to the Rev. T. H. Harper read the ceremony which united her "until death do us part" to John H. Stone. Each of the principals were in different stations in Texas. (International News Reel.)



HERE'S SOMETHING MISS OUT-DOORS SHOULDN'T miss! For that auto ride in the cool of the evening, or for the seashore, this charming combination of tan wool hat and scarf of camel's hair is ideal. The scarf has a gay border of plaid and is of the long "shawly" effect so popular with miss and matron. (International News Reel).





YOU'RE BOUND TO RUBber at these new rubber boots. The radio boots have booted out the flappers, flapping galoshes. Miss Shirley Keen is shown wearing the new radio boot, a combination of Russian boots and rubber boots, with a saucy piece of fur at the top. They were designed by Warren MacPherson of Cambridge and will be one of the features of Shoe Style Show at Mechanics Building next week.

CALL SOMERVILLE street menace to school children! The popularity of Vinal street, Somerville, for North Shore-bound autoists threatens the lives of pupils of the Southern Junior High School, also on Vinal avenue. This is partly due to the making of Walnut street a one-way thoroughfare. Map shows relative position of streets and schoolhouse. Parents hope to see this condition remedied before school opens. Several children have been killed near the school by autos.

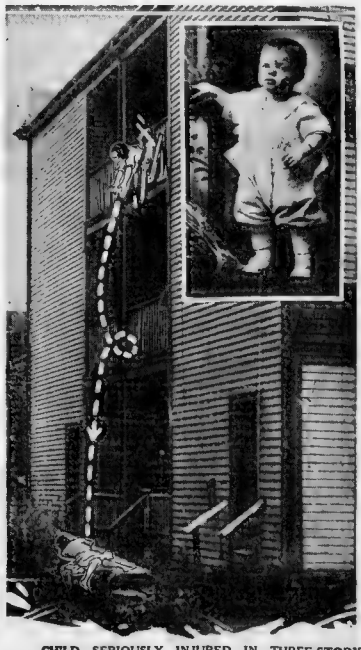
IF YOU HAVE FOLLOWED ARTHUR BRISBANE'S TODAY COLUMN YOU won't be surprised at this, for he has long been an enthusiast of the multiple uses of the airplane! For the first time in the history of farming a plague of caterpillars, which threatened to destroy the crop, has been exterminated with the aid of an airplane. Half a ton of insecticide was taken on board of the plane, which flew at a height of about 20 yards above the trees, spreading its liquid death in all directions. The experiment took place in England. (International News Reel.)



CHILD SERIOUSLY INJURED IN THREE-STORY fall from piazza. The rain kept pretty little Alice McCarthy, two and one-half years old, on her piazza. She had to play somewheres, of course, and when she leaned too hard against the railing, it gave way and she plunged to the ground. She suffered a fractured leg and internal injuries. Her home is at No. 254 Ferry street, Everett. Removed to children's hospital.

OWN ABDUCTION MAY BE CHARGED TO BIELASKI

Washington, July 6.—Reports in Mexico City that legal proceedings were contemplated by Mexican officials against A. Bruce Bielaski on charges that he had connived at his own abduction, by bandits recently, near Cuernavaca, lacked confirmation today at the State Department.

No word has come thus far it was said, from Charge Summerlin to indicate that he had been advised formally or informally by Mexican Federal authorities that they looked upon the Bielaski incident with suspicion.

Mr Summerlin discussed the case with President Obregon a monsters during the time Mr Bielaski was held By direction of the State Department he made representations, urging the rescue of the former head of the Department of Justice investigating bureau and later for the apprehension and punishment of the abductors.

The substance of these conversations was reported to the department and so far as known here nothing was said during the conversations to indicate Mexican officials thought it possible the incident was anything other than a bandit outbreak

When Bielaski reached Mexico City after his escape from the bandits he made a full statement as to his experiences to Mr Summerlin This document, the charge telegraphed had been placed in the mails for the State Department

Flock of Bathtubs Goes Flying Over White House

By Universal Service.

Washington, July 7.—A flock of bathtubs flew over the White House.

This simple and truthful statement was carefully verified before it was offered for publication. The tubs, eight of them, had been used by President Harding and his party at the marine manoeuvres at Gettysburg, and were being transported by airplane back to the marine camp at Quantico, Va.

Cows and pianos and Congressmen have been carried by airplane but this is the first time that bathtubs have gone cloud hopping. No credulous reader, they did not encounter showers.

WILSON CALLS POLICE TEST WINNERS

Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson today called before him the six sergeants who headed the list in the recent examination for the grade of lieutenant and from which he will select the three to be promoted to fill the vacancies caused by two retirements and one death

The men are Sergeants John F Lyons and Hugh A Rourke of the Athens street station, Joseph McKeown Hanover street station John McGrath, East Boston station Daniel W Fisher, Richmond Crossing station and Michael Healey, Jamaica Plain station

The commissioner also interviewed the eighteen patrolmen who recently took the examination for the grade of sergeant, from which fourteen will be advanced.

Among the eighteen are two who have prominently identified themselves by conspicuous work in the department Patrolman Bartholomew E. Winn, who captured Sam marco, slayer of Patrolman Clancy, a few years in the department, in a Charlestown dance hall more than a year ago, and also assisted in capturing the band of safe looting bandits in a shack in Wilmington a short time ago and Patrolman John J Manning

HERO OF RESCUE PREFERS SEA TO LAND

The "unknown hero," who rescued Mrs. Mary Bigelow from the roof of Hotel Northampton, has been discovered. He is Bjarue Johansen Eejh, a young Roxbury mariner who says land life is too dangerous and has gone back to sea.

When the Bigelow woman, who is 23 years of age, hung from the roof edge, after attempting suicide, Johansen, with the aid of a fellow guest, climbed to the roof and helped her to safety. He was then taken to the police station, where he answered questions put to him by Lieut Daniel F Foley. Eejh told the police that he was a native of Norway and had been in the United States about six years. He said he had been employed as a sailor on the Old Colony steamer Plymouth, which plies between Boston and Plymouth, but that he had left the boat because he thought it was "too dangerous."

STRIKEBREAKER LIKES JOB AS CAR CLEANER

By A STRIKE BREAKER.

Being a strikebreaker is very much like being a soldier. Before you join up you have visions of romantic danger, thrills awaiting, long freedom from ordinary routines and fellowship with other adventurers. After you break in you find out that it's just work.

I saw the advertisements of the Boston Terminal Company. There was a strike on. They wanted men to replace those who had walked out. I didn't know what the strike was about. I didn't care. I wanted to know how it felt to be a strike breaker.

MANY WAITING JOBS.

I applied at Room 236, South Station, the emergency employment office of the Terminal Company. I got there about 7:30 a. m. Already there were about a score of men there. Unlike me, they didn't seem to be the type of men looking for excitement or trouble. They looked like mechanics of the better class, who wanted work. They looked like men with families to support.

After waiting three or four hours I got my chance. Could I make boilers? I could not. Was I a plumber? No. A painter? No. A carpenter? No. I had to admit that I was nothing—a strikebreaker. I knew no skilled craft.

There was one spot open for me. They wanted car cleaners. I asked what a car cleaner did. They told me.

A car cleaner sweeps the car of the rubbish accumulated during a trip, dusts out the seats, puts ice in the water tanks and otherwise performs porter work of a rather low grade. My man asked me several searching questions. I must have convinced him that I was the ideal car sweeper. He told me I could start at once. The pay to be 37 cents an hour.

LIBERAL PAY FOR WORK.

Not much money, I figured, but liberal when one considered the sort of work to be done.

I began my work at two o'clock in the afternoon at the Dover street yards of the New Haven road. When I arrived at the yards I found a lot of coaches there. I tried to count them, but there were too many there to count. There must have been seven or four hundred coaches there. Three were the coaches that had to be cleaned.

I began to see that thirty-seven cents an hour wouldn't be such awful good pay for the job. I wondered how many years it would be before I would clean all those grimy coaches. Then I saw some other cleaners hanging around. I inquired. They, too, were car sweepers. There were about twenty of us. I felt much relieved.

As in a newspaper printing office there is a make-up man in charge, so is he duly to "make up" or couple trains. Of course, he doesn't do the actual making up. He has a corps of couplers to do that for him.

WORK MONOTONOUS.

I found out that there would be two car cleaners assigned to each coach. Not so bad. I began to have more respect for that thirty-seven cents an hour.

My associate in car-cleaning and I were each supplied with a push broom. We went into a train assigned to us. We swept. Any boiler knows the sensation. There was a great temptation to sweep under the seats. The dust was terrific. A car-sweeping train accumulates more grime and worse dust than anything else. It is a combination of dust and coal that has more clinging tendencies than the average. It gets into your face and it requires sandpaper to get it out. At least, that's the way it seems to me.

If the work was monotonous, it was at least easy on the brain. If it was hard, it was not intricate.

At 6 o'clock the outfit lined up and took us to one of the Pullman cars. There we were supplied with a meal. The grub was good. It consisted of corned beef cabbage, doughnuts and coffee. The sort of a meal that we would have to pay about 50 to 75 cents for in a restaurant. That brought our 37 cents an hour up several cents. I was given to understand that all the car cleaners got a meal a day. If they work overtime they are paid time and a half. My respect for the job began to go up. I figured that one could earn $3.94 per day plus a good meal and if you want to work a few hours over time you can make almost five dollars a day.

BECOMES ICE MAN.

However I decided to see what else I could do as a strikebreaker. I was getting used to the not on that my life wasn't in danger at all. There were no police in evidence and I was glad that I hadn't brought the gun along that I wanted to have to protect myself.

The next day I reported and was told that I was to have a new job. This time I was given a locker in the main shed. Right outside the main shed is an ice shed. Two of us got a wagon truck. We loaded that with ice from the ice shed and as soon as an empty train came in we armed ourselves with established ice picks. We went aboard the train. Wherever we found an ice container that was empty, we filled it.

I started to do this at half past 7 in the morning and worked until 4:30. But I found that when one works as an ice man, one doesn't get his lunch free.

On the whole, I prefer the sweeping. It's not so clean, but it's more dignified. I realized that I had.

The man who hired me said that if I had worked rather than promoted my ability I would have worked hard and showed out of me. He would make an older ... know how ... cents an hour.

WARN RAIL STRIKERS

EARLY PEACE SEEN IN RAIL STRIKE

LEAD LOCAL SHOPMEN

Chicago, July 6 (By the Associated Press).—Strike of railway shopmen assumed a more conciliatory aspect today, and feeling became more general that the last twenty-four hours had shown a marked trend toward peace.

It was believed that the exchange of letters between Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the United States Railroad Labor Board, and Bert M. Jewell, head of the railway employes department of the American Federation of Labor probably opened the way to negotiations for an early settlement.

Jewell's statement that the shop crafts "are willing to confer with any body authorized by the railroads to bring peace proposals" was accepted as a promising indication of a speedy return to normal conditions.

Chairman Hooper asserted that the Labor Board has been protecting the interests of the striking shopmen even while they have been called by the board names.

Another harbinger of peace in the statement by Chairman Hooper, was that a number of railroads which had turned out shop work to contractors were ready to abolish the contract system the big issue in the shop men's strike. Although the vote on strike in protest against the board was declared overwhelming, Mr. Jewell said that the question of protesting against the contracting of labor polled the heaviest strike vote of the three propositions put up to the shopmen.

Meanwhile railroads generally were advertising for men to replace strikers and strikers were reported at many points to be drifting back in uncertain numbers to their old jobs. Shop crafts leaders insisted that the strike was virtually 100 per cent effective.

Railroads for the most part announced passenger and freight traffic will be unhampered.

Boston police instructing rail strikers at the New Haven shops, Dover street and Dorchester avenue, that they must preserve the peace, and below, left to right, Boston Federation New Haven R. R. and general chairman of the Boilermakers and John J. Cotsonis, vice president of the International Association of Machinists.

Strike cuts from the three Boston car lines affected by the shopmen's strike today to the minimum. All three roads report service normal with morning and evening trains on schedule.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford officials stated that 291 men were put to work, making a total of 816 since the strike started. The Boston & Maine road put on 296 men, making a total of 1,740 who were on work out of 1,740 who were on strike. At the Boston & Albany in the Albion shops 70 men who refused to strike are still at work.

PROSPERITY RULES DESPITE BIG STRIKES

By H. H. REYNOLDS,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, July 6.—Despite the railroad strike and the accompanying [illegible] conditions on the railroads, commercial and industrial activity in the United States "are for the most part favorable and business generally the picture of prosperity. Department of Commerce today in its bi-monthly survey of trade and commerce" survey.

Wages continue to rise, prices showed a general increase during May and in many month for more than two years the department warned against disregarding caution in saying it has been the occasion of the present period that have been responsible for the depth of the depression that followed."

Prices in the average have not fallen below the pre-war level," the department said. They are now nearly 50 per cent above that level. No one knows at what level prices will finally become stabilized, but it is certain that they should be [illegible] long forward or [illegible] business at prices much above the present level."

There is every industry for which figures have been received showed greater activity in May than in April.

The virtual cessation of coal production as a result of the strike has so far caused little inconvenience, the report stated. It was admitted, however, that huge industrial stocks are dwindling rapidly.

When Baby Complains.

THERE ARE MANY WAYS a baby has of expressing any pain or irregularity or digression from its normal condition of health and happiness. A short sharp cry, a prolonged irritated cry. Restlessness, a constant turning of the head or of the whole body, fretful. In these and other ways a baby tells you there is something wrong. Most mothers know that a disordered stomach, or bowels that do not act naturally are the cause of most of baby's sufferings. A call for the doctor is the first thought, but in the event of any delay there should be ready at hand a safe remedy such as Fletcher's Castoria.

Castoria has been used for baby's ailments for over 30 years and has merited the good will of the family physician in a measure not equaled by any other baby's medicine because of its harmlessness and the good results achieved.

And remember this: Castoria is essentially a baby's remedy and not a cure-all for every member of the family. What might help you is too often dangerous when given to a babe.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Let's Think It Over.

"There is such a thing as saying too much on any subject, and the "grand-stand" talker sooner or later becomes a bore. The truth is always welcomed, and the truth reiterated and confirmed is more than welcome—it reaches your innermost soul.

Fletcher's Castoria is all its advertising has claimed for it. Scrutinized by the microscope of public opinion and used for over thirty years it stands without a peer in the hearts of thoughtful, cautious, discerning Mothers. And once used, mother love—there is no substitute for mother love—will scorn to try a "substitute" or a "just-as-good".

Masquerading under many names drugs that are injurious to the tender babe have found their way into some households, but the light of experience soon casts them out. Are they cast out before it is too late?

NEW TRIAL SOUGHT FOR DOOMED SLAYER

Middleton, Ct., July 6.—Petition for a new trial for Emil Schutte, sentenced to be hanged for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hull and their son Jacob, in 1918, has been filed with the clerk of the superior court. It is expected that Governor Lake will be asked to grant a stay of execution pending action by the court on the petition, which is returnable September 5.

Emil Schutte

Two counts are given in the petition. The first claims newly discovered evidence which indicates Schutte's sentence was not [illegible] his father on the night previous to the murder, as had been alleged at the trial. The second count claims that one of the jurors in the case was prejudiced against the accused man.

A previous petition for a new trial made to the State Supreme Court was denied recently.

The Human Terms of Tire Competition

MANY an American citizen has turned down a "job that looks like more money" in favor of a chance to do better work.

He gets called an idealist, perhaps. But when folks want to buy good merchandise and satisfactory service he's the kind of man they look for.

For practical example note the tire business.

* * *

Think back to the time when cord tires started to be talked about.

Cord construction had for its ideal a bigger service value for the car owner.

Whenever the cord principle was faithfully carried out it lived up to its original vision.

Now the makers of U. S. Royal Cords ask permission to put this on record:

Without high integrity of manufacture the cord tire might just as well not have been discovered at all.

* * *

Respect for the fine and rigid rules of cord tire building has made U. S. Royal Cords the measure of all other automobile tires.

A leadership obtained in less than seven years and in competition with hundreds of different cord tire brands.

How much could be saved for American car owners if all tire makers would compete day in and day out just on quality alone!

Prices on United States Passenger Car Tires and Tubes, effective May 8th, are not subject to war-tax, the war-tax having been included.

JOHNSON'S CUNNING DEFEATED BURNS AND JEFFRIES

NEGRO TAUNTED RIVALS WITH STINGING WORDS

By JACK CONWAY

"Now he a nice, good little boy, Tommy, and come right over here that I can sink my little hand into your stomach."

Jack Johnson grinned good naturedly, seized Tommy Burns, at that time world's heavyweight champion around the body and pulled him to close quarters.

The negro's right hand then crashed to Burns' stomach.

"You're an oblieging little cuss," continued John.

"Now let me show you how effective my right hand uppercut is.

Burns lunked forward angrily, only to bump into a right hand uppercut to the jaw.

"You should know, Tommy, that a champion isn't supposed to lose his temper in the ring," Johnson said craftily. "But what did you think of that right hand uppercut? A beauty, eh? I hope to demonstrate its value to Jeffries after I take away your title."

Burns so far forgot himself as to [illegible] drive forth with wild left and right hand swings.

Johnson caught the punches in [illegible] and laughed outright.

"I told you, Tommy, that a champion should never lose his temper. If I were uncharitable, I could have knocked you out while you were swinging like a gate. But don't get too rough. I want to give those people out there in the crowd a little run for their money."

The negro Johnson talked the wilder Burns were. But his ferocious [illegible] him anything as Johnson's heavy punches out of the same nonchalant Southern darky exercising confon.

The champion when [illegible] Tommy," Johnson [illegible] now and again. "I could [illegible] out any time with a punch in [illegible] ways try to be an audience pleaser."

For fourteen rounds Johnson kept up a spirited line of conversation. Meanwhile left and right hand punches slowly wore Burns down.

Perhaps Johnson could have won by a knockout any time he desired. But he was satisfied to pile, with his opponent much like the family tabby does with a mouse. He knew he could defeat Burns and he took his time about it.

Finally in the fourteenth round, the police climbed into the ring at Sydney, Australia and stopped the bout.

Johnson, the negro champion, was crowned heavyweight champion of the world.

Johnson's cunning was an important factor in this victory. He taunted Burns into losing which greatly enhanced the negro's chances of winning.

As Alex McLean pointed out in an interview with the writer published in yesterday's Boston American, Johnson wasn't worth a nickel as a fighter when his opponent refused to carry the fight.

Jack's best blow was a right hand uppercut. In order to score with it, the other fellow must necessarily be carrying the battling.

Physically Burns was no match for Johnson Tommy was five feet seven inches tall and weighed 185 pounds. Johnson was six feet one-half inches tall and scaled 210 pounds.

Naturally the negro could toss Burns around in the clinches. An aggressive fighter like Dempsey would have knocked Burns out in four or five rounds. Johnson's style of fighting was slow, but effective. His natural cunning gave him every technical advantage and detracted from his rival's ability.

It was the same story at Reno. Johnson had been tipped that Jeffries was merely a shell of his former self. But he was too old a hand in the boxing game to believe all the stories he was told about the California's wrecked physical condition.

So Johnson trained faithfully. He probably worked harder for the Reno tussle than for any bout of his career.

He was cunning enough to test Jeffries' strength in the first round. He didn't do it by letting loose with fight to him. This plan worked successfully as the above picture shows. Johnson was trapped forcing the milling. And as an aggressive fighter Johnson was about as successful as the Germans were once your Uncle Samuel got his sleeves rolled up. Willard's defensive tactics gave him a world's championship

WILLARD FOILS JOHNSON

"Jack Johnson Foiled!" This would have been a fitting name for the thrilling ring drama that took place at Havana, Cuba, on April 5, 1915. For years Johnson had been defeating the world's greatest heavyweights by compelling them to carry the fight to him. This method enabled him to call into play his famous right hand uppercut. Jess Willard, though, wasn't the type of ring man who could be spurred on to aggressiveness by taunts or cunning. He was a manufactured fighter, in the ring merely for the money he could get out of it. And he had been coached to make Johnson carry the fight to him. This plan worked successfully as the above picture shows. Johnson was trapped forcing the milling. And as an aggressive fighter Johnson was about as successful as the Germans were once your Uncle Samuel got his sleeves rolled up. Willard's defensive tactics gave him a world's championship

LOCAL FLIERS FASTER THAN COAST STARS

California is greatly enthused over the success of its college athletes in recent Intercollegiate track championships and is looking forward to continued triumphs on the cinder path

"Cradle of Champions" is the way California writers are referring to the State since Jack Merchant, "Dick" Muller, "Jack" Norris, Charlie Paddock, Morris Kirksey, Sudden, Glenn Hartranft and others have come to the fore.

They have selected four scholastic champions to keep "Sunny" California in the supreme position in collegiate track. They do not state which college will get the four stars, but simply rave of California's chances while the quartet are competing for one of the California colleges

J. N. Watters

"Bud" Houser tops the quartet and it goes without saying that this youth is destined to bring fame to his native state

Houser has tossed the 12-pound shot 50 feet and does 46 with the 16-pounder. A throw of 14 feet, 3 inches, gave him first place in the discus throw at the National Interscholastic meet in Chicago recently. He did close to 150 feet in the hammer throw, over 100 feet with the javelin, and made fast time in the hurdles

Second honors fall to Eddie Shaw, who recently landed first place in the National School quarter mile in 51 2-5 seconds and tied for first place in the high jump with a leap of 5 feet, 10 inches. Both of shaw's marks have been bettered by local schoolboys, but his ability in both running and jumping events makes him a classy prospect.

Carl Lundell of Exeter, Bob Allen of Andover, Joe Kelley of Medford, McFarland of Huntington School and Tibbetts of Worcester Academy are local boys who have bettered his time in the double furlong. Gall Robinson, Huntington school, jumps around 6 feet, looks more promising than Shaw in high jump, while Walsh of South Boston, E. M. Jones of Exeter and Welch of Boston College High should equal his mark during the coming track season

E. M. Jones

Smith, who has stepped over the furlong in 23 2-5 and Kerr a half-miler credited with 2.01 2-5, are the remaining members of the scholastic quartet depended upon to keep California at the front in intercollegiate track competition.

Lundell, Ralph Colson of Allen School and Larry Simmons of Huntington School have shaded Smith's 226 mark, while J. N. Watters and Al O'Neil of Exeter, Allen of Andover, Clauson of Worcester Academy, Kelley of Medford and Cavanaugh of Boston College High are a few of the local schoolboys who can better the time of Kerr in the half mile

While comparisons may often be a waste of time, the evidence goes to show that Massachusetts schoolboy track athletes compare favorably with those of California, which styles itself "Cradle of Champions"

K. O. ELKINS IS SIGNED TO BOX MARTIN

K. O. Charley Elkins, who has proved a riot in New Bedford, has been signed to battle Harry Martin of Providence in the ten-round semi-final at the Arena A. C.'s show Monday night.

Elkins has done some sensational fighting during the past year. He has knocked out Poul Demers and Bobby Josepha, while he has punched his way to easy victories over Al Shubert and other equally tough ring men.

K. O. Elkins

As for Martin, he has always been a satisfactory performer. He's a good boxer and heavy hitter and expects to score a win over Elkins

It has also been announced that Billy Shine of Quincy and Freddy Warren of South Boston will mingle in an eight round tussle. There will also be another eight-session affair

Delmont Has Hopes of Defeating Martin

When Gene Delmont and Pepper Martin clash in the feature ten-round bout it will be one of the first times when Delmont has entered the ring without conceding anywhere from eight to twelve pounds to an opponent. Delmont has gone out of his class to box more times than most any boxer in the game to-day. And strange to relate the Memphis Italian has done better than hold his own with a majority of them

Delmont has a record of fourteen months' overseas service to his credit and soon after his discharge from the Army he was signed to box Hockey Kansas in New York. This bout was fast and interesting from start to finish and as a result of it the pair were signed to box again at Buffalo

The first bout came soon after Kansas had knocked out Richie Mitchell and given Benny Leonard his first hard battle in New York

In addition to Kansas, Delmont has boxed Leonard, Tendler, White, Jackson, George Chaney, and Chaney Frush and Johnny Kilbane

Delmont and Martin have had a previous encounter in which they starred in Brooklyn, Pepper got away with a claim of foul after he had been knocked down in the fourth round. Delmont has since declined to box Martin in Brooklyn because of the home town advantage he regards as having worked to "Pepper's" benefit.

Reservations are being received at the downtown offices of the Arena A. C., No 39 Court street. Telephone Main 6124

Diamond Sculls Heat Won by Walter Hoover

London, July 6. — Walter Hoover of Duluth, Minn., the American single sculls champion, won his heat in the Diamond Sculls Championship at Henley today by a length and a half in the time of 10 minutes 41 seconds. Hoover's opponent was R. Pearce, a college oar, who furnished little opposition to the American's victory after the first half mile

NEW BALL STARS TO ENTER AT HOLY CROSS

Captain "Chic" Gagnon and Freddy Maguire, for three years rated as the greatest keystone combination playing college baseball, have hardly reported to their respective major league clubs when two of the wonderful scholastic ball play ers were announced as intending to enter Holy Cross College in September

Fred Maguire

Having in mind the remarkable all-around playing of Gagnon, and lot ball players said that Warren "Fat" Cote will easily fill his shoes Cote has had plenty of experience is a remarkably sure fielder, a hard hitter and fast on the bases

It is hinted that "Punk" Gautreau will be shifted to second base "Punk" played that position for North Cambridge and is now playing it for Salem.

"Hop" Riopel could be moved over to third base which is his natural position. Riopel is a hard hitter and was used at first base during the past season

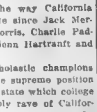
To complete a sweet infield it is whispered that Roy Kelley, former Everett High School star, who has been preparing at Dowling school, will be at the Cross to cover first base.

With Martin available for backstop duty; Tunney, with a year's layoff, Horan, Gill and Carroll back for mound duty; Bloomfarb, Leo Dugan and Doherty for outfield work, and chances bright for a few more scholastic stars, it looks as though Jack Barry will have another championship contender next year

Fenways at Lexington

Lexington Council, Knights of Columbus, has booked a home game with the Fenway All Stars for Sunday, on Lexington Field at 3 15.

HALL HAS CHANCE TO SHOW CLASS



Harold Hall

"No pitcher, regardless of how effective he is, can be a success without proper support from his teammates," was the saying of an old baseball scout and big league hurler The remark never proved more truthful than in the case of Harold "Rube" Hall, formerly of Everett High

During the school season Hall was noted for his fine work on the mound. It was nothing unusual for him to average fifteen strikeouts during a contest and yet lose. He was supported by the weakest fielding team in the Suburban League at the time.

Hall has since joined the Boston All-Scholastic team and opened up the season's play with a no-hit, no-run contest against St James H.S. of Haverhill

Manager Hanrihan intends to use Hall in many important games this Summer, so that those who followed the Everett schoolboy during the spring will have an opportunity to watch him twirl with real support behind him.

HODDER LOOKS GOOD FOR JUNIOR TITLE

By F. G. THAYER.

Entries for the Junior Championship to take place at Commonwealth Country Club, July 11 to 14, closed last week and there are ninety-one named.

Ted Leonard is the present junior champion and will be a very tough youth to beat. His performances have not been so conspicuous as those of some others in this year's events, but from all reports he is playing in old-time form.

His most serious rivals are Clark Hodder, finalist in the recent State championship, and Jack MacAndrews, former caddy champion and recent winner of the first open tournament at Wollaston this Spring. "Mac" is a finished golfer, a chip of the old block, and the prediction points to his attaining another championship to [illegible] his already large list of trophies Hodder is a long hitter and a good putter, and it is a safe surmise that the competition at Commonwealth will be genuine and many will be the close contests.

Newton, Brighton, Watertown, Dorchester, Brookline and other local sections have their coteries of stars representing these districts. Outside cities like Worcester, Beverly, Lowell, Leicester and New Bedford are well represented.

National Open Championship at Chicago on Same Days

At the same time the National open championship will be fought at Skokie in Chicago. Also on July 11, 12 and 14 Winchester Country Club will had an invitation four-ball best ball match play competition. The golfing enthusiasts are flocking to the Bay State tournaments in such numbers that it is only a question of time when many of the clubs will be compelled to restrict the number of entrants and only those good golfers will be permitted to play. This is one method of avoiding the congestion which is most urgently needed in some of the popular events

New England is not exactly out of the running for the leading honors at Chicago Jesse Guilford, who two years back won the State open at Worcester from a field of the best New England professional golfers, might be in one of his scoring moods and give the country's pick a merry run for the premier honors. He is shooting the game of his young career this Spring and a little rolling might make the Busy Bertha growl

Willie Ogg is Another Who May Find He Likes It.

Willie Ogg is another who might find the going to his liking. Gil Nichols is stout on his game judging from his local performances in Boston and vicinity thus far this year and his recent pace at Woodland is fast enough to worry the top-notchers.

John Cowan also is always a dangerous contender and not many years back in this same national at Brae-Burn he had the chance of his life to cop when he was leading the field at one stage in the final round only to be interfered with by the unwieldy gallery and robbed of a chance to continue the high class golf he was shooting at that time. Other New England entrants who might be expected to do well are Chris McGrath and the midget Walter Howe.

A formidable array of the world's leading golfers is slated to start off at Chicago. It would be difficult to imagine a more seaworthy group of the game's stars unless the names of Taylor, Braid, Ray, Vardon and other British exponents were excluded.

Hagen Sounds Real Class and Others Add Strength

Just now, Hagen sounds real class and Barnes, Hutchinson, Kirkwood, Mitchel, Duncan and our popular Brady add strength

In 1920 Ray got away with our national title and in fact came near doing the trick twice. This year Duncan, the brilliant player from Scotland, who plays with lightning rapidity, and his traveling companion, Mitchel, probably the world's longest and most consistent driver, will both be able to cling to the hottest kind of pace.

Most golf devotees are comfortably at ease about the outcome with their two champions, Barnes and Hagen in the field and probably a dozen or more other equally worthy aspirants who have not yet landed, but are knocking at the door of fame very loudly.

Whatever the result the championship will be a real one and will be well deserving of his title as was Hagen when he recently tucked away the greatest European laurels.

The spectators who follow the course of the players at Skokie on any of the three qualifying days will find plenty of luminaries in the various groups whose game they can follow and be very much edified golfwise speaking.

One-third of the Field Will Start on the First Day

On Monday one-third of the field of 240 entrants will complete their qualification rounds. Among the most prominent pairing for the first day are: Barnes and Evans, who start early. Brady and Jock Hutchison are the next big pair. Others on Monday's program include Kirkwood, the trick artist; Willie Hunter, '21, British amateur champion, Alex Mitchel, Jill Nichols, George McLean, Charlie Hoffner, our own Alec Campbell, Willie MacFarlane, Alex Smith and Cyril Walker

Tuesdays attractions are the Hagen-Duncan combination; Bobby Jones and Leo Diegel; Wilfred Reid whose fame loomed up to American in 1913 at the Country Club and who since has domiciled in United States where he makes his strokes against Siege Gun; Willie Ogg and Whitcombe; Gene Sarazens and Johnny Anderson; Clarence Hackney and Davidson Herron; Frank McNamara and Jack Burke

Tommy Kerrigan Will Be in His Togs for Wednesday

On Wednesday Wollaston's Tommy Kerrigan, who finished second in 1921 in the British open, will be in his togs, as well as Harry Hampton Pat O Hara, Bob MacDonald, Fred McLeod, Laurie Ayton, George Bowden, Tommy Armour and Eddie Lowe.

Many of the country's brilliant amateurs are listed and one or two of them should finish in the money.

Entries for the State open championship should be sent to W. S. Hunnewell, Sears Building, before July 10. The Springfield Country Club is the attractive spot picked for this year's championship to be held on July 19 and 20, consisting of two days of thirty-six holes each of medal play, the winner being the low medalist for 72 holes.

The winner receives $200 and the next lowest scorer $100, and so on down to eighth place, the winner of that position being the recipient of $10. The course will be open for practice rounds July 17 and 18.

CONWAY BOLSTERS NORUMBEGA TEAM

Friday evening the Norumbega Park nine takes on the Newton Upper Falls A. A. at Norumbega Park. Norumbega has secured the services of Burleaver, Dartmouth catcher who will play his first game for the team Friday. Other members of the Norumbega nine are Eaton, Dartmouth, first base; Jackie Leary, all-scholastic shortstop, and Connellan and Tevlin, former New England League players.

Edward Conway

Included in the Upper Falls line up are Whetton, Norwich University; Crowley, Newton High, and Driggs and Malone, its star battery.

The team is managed by Edward Conway.

Barney Nolan of the High School of Commerce has been added to the roster of the All-Star team and will doubtly be used by Lincoln Club, which should be a formidable foe for the fast-traveling schoolboys.

Followers of scholastic sports are familiar with the ability of Nolan, who made a fine record while wearing the uniform of the Back Bay school. He has a baffling change of pace, and working with "Bo" McMenimen should be officially effective

Ben Ponteau.

Ben has been fighting professionally for a while back and has never lost a decision. Ponteau is the exact replica of the original Joe Gans, and in action looks the part. He is a good puncher and a hard worker.

Under the training he will receive from Leo Flynn, he should develop into a high-class performer and land in the front rank of his division Leo schools all his new talent and "coaches" them up for big achievements

Ponteau has won his last three fights via the knockout route and seems to be good material

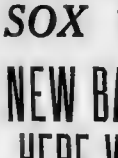
SOX TO TACKLE FOUR TOUGH TEAMS DURING HOME STAY

NEW BATTERY KINGS HERE WITH BROWNS

By NICK FLATLEY.

Success, in escaping from the cellar out on the trails, is likely to inspire the Red Sox with ambitions to get higher in the world. The Duffys arrived home today, two games ahead of the Athletics, and that margin should increase rather than shrink while the Western clubs are invading the seacoast, or spots closely adjacent thereto.



Sixth place is only a hair's breadth upstairs, as the Fenway flock are practically tied with the Cleveland Indians, some one one-thousandth of one per cent. in the rear. Getting over that hurdle in the immediate future isn't a soft proposition, however, for the St. Louis Browns opened the entertainment here, and beating that flying gang is a tough day's work for any man's club

The Brownies remain in the village over Monday, and in that time are supposed to wipe out two postponement.

After Lee Fohl goes away from here, the Indians arrive for a quartet of engagements, in which the real scrap for sixth place is likely to be staged. Cleveland was bumped rudely at the Fenway earlier in the campaign, and the club has no terrors for the local athletes.

Ty Cobb and His Surprising Club Follow

Ty Cobb and his surprising Tigers follow the Speakers in and the White Sox come to windup the incursion. The Kid Gleasons were plentifully assaulted on their first visit, but things have changed with them, and now they're up in third place, threatening to blast the Yanks out of their room next to the roof.

In all the Sox have fifteen baseball days here, with something like eighteen games to play. When the club came home from its disastrous Western jaunt, it was in the cellar, but became almost popular again by rattling off six consecutive victories.

They had 20,000 out at a Monday double-header with the Yanks, and can find plenty of fans anxious for baseball hanging around just now, if they're winning. Bad weather and worse Bruve baseball has prepared us for popolace to turn up rapturously to welcome a good brand of either commodity.

The Browns in a season are one of the best attractions on the b. h. map. They pack the new home run kiling, Kenneth Williams, who has jostled twenty of the circuit taps off his bludgeon, Babe Ruth will undoubtedly catch the tail ahead of him shortly, but until he does, Ken has the glory and the magnetism of his leadership.

Fenway Park offers a real test for a southpaw swatter, as the bleachers in right are a few miles from the source. The Babe always manages to dump one or two in there in the course of a series, but Williams never has been prominent in that line. He didn't do it in the two games the Browns played on their last stop.

The Club Has Sisler Who Is Headed for Record

In addition to Williams, the Fohls have the remarkable Mister Sisler apparently headed for a new major league batting average. George, for short, is probably one of the greatest players of all time, is knocking them out for a mere .420 now, and apparently getting better as the parade rolls along.

If he keeps going, he'll wind up 1922 with more hits and a fatter percentage than ever a ball player hung on the records. To date he has whacked out 133 base blows in 306 attempts, which is what you might call swatting. That's so good that there's no point quick figuring bothers don't go that high.

Hughey Duffy has the best season many men, the second, but it wasn't quite up to what St. Louis George is doing just now. He has shot the club full of the base hit habit, for the general batting average is .302, and that's going to keep almost any team up there, with decent pitching. And the Brownies have been greeting that kind more often than not. This is not a great year for the hurlers of any club.

Same Old Story, No Games Today

The continued rain caused the postponement of the double header at Fenway Park today. Should "Old Sol" shine tomorrow, a second attempt will be made to put on the double bill with the first contest starting at 1.30.

TWO TWILIGHT CONTESTS TONIGHT

The Boston Twilight League which will close the first half of its season this week has booked two slashing good late pastime contests to night

The feature event will be the game between the North Cambridge Knights of Columbus and the Dorchester Baseball Club at Russell Field North Cambridge. The other attraction will find the J. J. Connelly club of Roxbury paying a visit to the Malden Knights at Ferryway Green Malden

The big yarn is that there is a triple tie among Dorchester, Malden Knights and the St Andrew's A. A. for second place, so a victory will be welcomed by both organizations The east slip-up means the downfall of either team into third position

If the weather permits there should be ten thousand fans at Russell Field when the Dorchester and University city teams clash. Manager Claude Davidson of the Dorchester nine is full of fight and his band of ball tossers is going good as it proved by walloping the Cor net All Start of Lynn Monday Davidson will send Chipple Gaw to the firing line and Al Kroog and Ada Hart will be on hand should he fail

The rumor around town that Ray mie Skiton was suspended is all the bunk. The husky ex-collegian as far as the Twilight League is concerned stands acc hish, and will be seen in centre garden

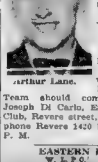
Fighting Dan Leahy, the Camperdown five wire has slated Arthur Reynolds to go upon the peak for the Kay See outfit.

At Malden there will be a real battle also when the nine from Roxbury meet the Maldenites in the other battle. Manager Flanagan has a trio of slab artists to pick from in Mullaney, Queen and tall Jim Gleason

Danner will most likely use either King or Kamp on the hill for the J. J. Connelly Club. The latter club is considered as one of the hardest hitting teams in the league.

REVERE CITY TEAM SEEKS DATES

The Revere City T-am, who have been quite successful on the diamond this season, are seeking games for the Summer away from home.



Arthur Lane.

The beach nine has secured Arthur Lane, who only a season or so back was considered one of the best outfielders in semi pro ranks He has agreed to play in the garden with Connors and Laven.

Those who wish to book the Revere City Team should communicate with Joseph Di Carlo, Elmwood Athletic Club, Revere street, Revere, or telephone Revere 1420 between 6 and 9 P. M.

YANKS NEW BALL PARK FOR WILLS-DEMPSEY GO

New York, July 6.—If those behind the enterprises are pleased to show any particular anxiety to put on the Dempsey-Wills meeting by Labor Day, officials of the New York American League Club may after their new park, now under construction, as the scene of the bout, it became known today

Ara. Rickard

The Yankee chiefs are said to feel that the stadium, seating upward of 75 000 persons and fed by the lines of the East Side subways would make an ideal setting for he affair and are prepared to communicate Rickard soon as the good Mr. Rickard and all interested parties.

They feel that Mr Rickard could look further and do worse In fact all the stands are completed a habitable be must take it is possible that more than 100,0 0 can be accommodated through the expenditure of temporary seats on the field, to say nothing of extra standing room

There is no other ball park in the vicinity that can hold out the same inducements, it is claimed.

Boston's Thirty Acres Jersey's team and does hold many big games in Jersey are said to be in a precarious way and reforms have must be placated before

* * *

A Dempsey-Wills meeting would not exactly serve this purpose. On the other hand, New York has tacitly asked for the bout, what with the State Commission demanding Dempsey's acceptance of the Wills challenge and governor

Miller's assurances of official tolerance

* * *

Mr Hand might wan to take the affair on himself and promote a bout of his own, would prove a popular move with the fans want the boat

However our worries promises to be over when the Jersey Athletic Club, who trails the choose and can put the mitt-a-bout over behind his breakfast

RUPERT HUGHES' GREATEST NOVEL

What Would YOU Do?

IF you were beautiful young Remember Steddon, a Massachusetts minister's daughter, whose sweetheart died before the wedding, would you try to bring up your baby among those who knew you in your own home town? Or would you run away for a fresh start with new surroundings? If you had your living to make, would you try to get into the movies? Dr. Bretherick, the family physician, advised Remember to go to California. This she did, writing her parents a fictitious tale of having married and lost her "husband." She falls from a cliff and is told that the accident caused the death of her unborn child. Remember arrives in Los Angeles and determines to "pay the price" for a chance in the movies, but is refused. She is coached by Director Claymore, who finds flashes of talent. This struggle of a young girl to work out her own salvation is stirringly told in Rupert Hughes' greatest novel. Go on with the story.

WORK was recess to him, and he scampered from his textbooks to the set as to a wholesale toy shop.

The electricians told him all about the big light machines. The property men let him help them with their labors. The assistant director lent him the megaphone for a toy and he bellowed through it like an infant Stentor. The lady who had to make herself look very old with all manner of paint was as gentle an ogress as ever ate a child. The beautiful star held him in her lap, and he learned to keep his hands off her make-up and kiss her behind the ear. He was as close to heaven as a child may climb on this doleful footstool. He had even the supreme pride of condescension; for an even younger actor than he was in the cast.

He felt the dignity of a veteran as he watched the scenes in which his little baby "brother" was engaged. This child was too young to be asked to act. The scenes he played in had to be the played as games and they were costly games for every minute spent could be charged off as five dollars gone, which it loves to pay its best money.

Claymore would hand the baby a morsel of candy, drop another down the barrel for the child to peer after and try to extract. Then Claymore would scuttle backward out of the range of the cameras, motion the electricians to hit the lights and the camera men to crank.

He cooed to the baby in prattling terms, situggling to keep it on absorbed in its task that it would not look out toward the camera and betray to future audiences the presence of a coach.

Time after time something diverted the baby's mind. Just as the scene was rolling perfectly the child would look away and fling the pistol down, or wave its hand and grin at some one in front. Then the task had to be begun again. The child had an impish gift for giving the camera men false starts and then ruining the most promising take-offs.

The director, groveling about the floor, would not despair, and returned to the toil with a persistence much praised in spiders and ants and other stubborn industrials had to leave the set and tear his hair and curse to get rid of his nerves. The production manager, whose business it was to keep the picture going at high speed and low cost, fumed and figured the expense. He said to the director, "That dammed brat has cost the picture three thousand dollars so far without a foot of film to show for it."

Claymore, whose sympathy was inexhaustible as long as there was an honest effort, resented the insult to one of his cast. And eventually he won his point, decoyed the baby through the scenes, and caught it with two cameras. The audience would never dream of the toil or the cost as it smiled at the brief frivolity. But then it is the pride of the true artist to conceal his toil as something obscene, a disgrace if discovered.

Terry Dack had no such patience for his bungling junior as the director showed. He was impatient to get to his own scenes, and when at last they were reached he began life anew.

He romped and whooped with laughter during the long waits he lights were being brought up, the camera angles discussed, the properties arranged.

The moment the word "Action!" rang out he became the earnest artist. Already he knew that, while trashy scenes may be played in a cheerful atmosphere, comedy must be approached solemnly. He agonized over his humor, but he did not lose self-control in pathos.

Once, between the first take and the second of a pathetic scene, he began to tell a funny story to the camera man.

Claymore said: "Don't laugh in this scene, now. It's very serious."

If a super had told Edwin Booth not to giggle when he went on in "The Soliloquy," he might have received a gianice of similar barb. Claymore apologized heatily.

But Terry's pride in his superiority to the bungling baby was doomed to fall. There was a scene where he and his brother painted each other's lips with their stage mother's rouge stick. There was a scene where they said their prayers at the actress' knee. In these he shone and in moments of childish pathos. But by and by the crisis arrived when Terry must play a lost and abandoned waif forever in dark doorway, and sobbing in lonely dismay as he groped blindly for his mother and called her name.

He had responded to all the demands upon his armory of smiles and poems, but when Claymore appealed for tears they would not flow.

Terry tried and tried. He squeezed his eyes. He stared at the lights. He tried to think of sad things, but never a bit of brine responded.

Even the groping of his hands was awkward and unreal.

Claymore explained, "I want you to do just what you do when you are sick or afraid at night and you reach out in the dark and feel for your mother."

"Oh, but I never do!" said Terry, with a certain loftiness of demurrer

This ended that. Claymore pondered, "Did you ever play blind man's buff?"

"You bet!"

"Is you remember how you would put your hands out when your eyes were shut?"

"Oh yes! I see what you mean now. Like this, eh?"

And he clenched his eyes and put his plumb hands forth, stroking the air to find his brother's cheek.

"Great! We'll take it!" said Claymore. The camera man called, "Hit 'em!" The glare poured from the concentrated arcs. The music struck up a sobbing tune. The director called: "Action! Camera!" And Terry groped pitifully

So far so good. But next was the crying scene, and the weeping must be real. Glycerine tears would be an insult to both audience and actor

Claymore tried to tune the actor up to the climax by explaining the situation. Terry nodded like an old scholar. But no tears rose. Claymore appealed to the boy's sympathies for the character, for himself. He spoke in his most tear-compelling intonations. But not a tear would well from the desert of Terry's dry orbs

"Think of your mother being awful sick and dying, far away from you"

But Terry was too much of an actor to take this bait. "What's my mother got to do with this movin' pitcher?" he asked, in fine sincerity

Claymore took up other weapons. He hammered that usually malleable little soul almost raw. Three hundred dollars had gone to the waste basket already and not a foot of film was even spoiled yet

Claymore did not lose his temper, for he could see that the child was wrestling with his own inner secrets. He made all ready for the shot. He pretended a deep disgust for Terry, put him off his lap with a curt: "You are a quitter. The trouble with you is that you're not trying."

"I am so trying!" Terry gasped, astonished

Claymore snarled contempt "No, you're not! You're just in an ugly, stubborn mood. You can see that we're all waiting here, the light crew, the camera men. You know the rule: each can go as we get this easy scene finished. Mr. Woburn (the author) has to have this scene in his story or it's spoiled. But what do you care" Mr. Bormond has paid you money and wants to pay you more, but just to spite him and all of us you hold back your tears"

The injustice of this outraged the child's soul. He stamped his foot in protest

"That a n't so"

"It is so, so" Claymore snapped back, and again he flaunted the red rag. "You can cry as well as anybody. You know that. I've been friends with you, and I thought you were friends with me and with the star and Miss Steddon, here But you're worse than the little baby who wouldn't play with the pistol He didn't know any better. But you—there's only one thing keeping you from crying."

"What-at?" whimpered Terry, his lips shivering, his chin puckering as with a drawstring, his throat gulping till Mem could hardly keep from dashing to his rescue.

Claymore snarled: "It's your meanness. You're a dirty little alley cat, a spiteful little alley cat."

"I am no-ot an alley ca-at!" Terry sobbed.

"Of course you are. You don't belong on the screen Go on back to your alley You cat. Go on back to the desert with the other coyotes We don't want you here, because you won t cry."

"I will so cry! Hoo hoo—I—will cry!"

Claymore tossed his voice in scorn.

"Oh, you might make a lot of sniffles, but you wouldn't dream of crying like a lost child, 'I want my mamma'"

"I want my mamma!" Terry howled

The flood broke from a suddenly blackened sky. Sobs shook his frame. Tears spilled and darted across his fat cheeks. The childish treble rang wild

Carpenters working on distant sets paused with the heart stab a child's cry thrusts into the breast

The electricians, the property men, the actors and actresses, gulped and clenched their hands

Terry did not see the lights come on at Claymore's signals. He did not see Claymore tap the elbows of the camera men nor hear the cranks scuttering

He sobbed and sobbed while Claymore goaded him on, giving him his cue disguised as abuse. "I want my mamma! You alley cat!" in antiphony with Terry's increasing anguish

RICH GIRL, POOR GIRL

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

"YOUR mother is lovely," he said simply "When I saw her I understood you."

"Yes" the man repeated, "I understood you when I talked with your mother. You are like her — only younger and prettier. You have her soft voice, her gentle manner. Now I know why the attentions you have had have never ruined the bloom from the peach. That is an old fashioned phrase—but it expresses what I mean."

She was looking at him, her heart beating fast. She must tell him now the truth about herself.

"Perhaps, if you knew—all I have done," she said timidly, "you would not think so well of me. For Dr. Carter—I have knocked about quite a bit."

"I know it."

"But you do not" she contradicted. "You know that I was a milliner's assistant. But you do not know that, just before I went to Mr. Hollingshead—I—was sing—ing—"

He held up a silencing hand. "In Heyman's cabaret? Yes, I do know it. Mr. Hollingshead told me all about it at the time that we had to ask you to sing for his wife."

"Then you knew!" the words were scarcely more than a whisper.

"Yes, I knew. Oh, child, dare I tell you what I felt when I learned that—how that love that had begun to grow in my heart sprang to such a vigorous growth that I could scarcely conceal it from you. I knew what an ordeal that cabaret experience must have been—I could fancy how you had kept up a brave front to your mother—when all the time you were half sick with fear.

"And then—I watched you in that house—with that poor, dying woman there—how you put your own abhorrence of certain things aside in order to spare her pain in order to keep her with her husband a little longer—in order to help me fight the fight for her life.

"Do you think I did not see it all? My dear, my dear! How blind you must think me and how blind you must be if you do not know that I love you better than all the world beside"

He was holding both her hands in his firm grasp. His eyes were gazing into hers with an expression of which she had had but a passing glimpse until now. She understood as never before that in his love lay al her happiness, all that life could hold of sweetness.

She could not speak. Nor could she look away.

"I know you do not love me yet," he was saying. "But all I ask is that you will give me a chance to try to make you love me." His humility broke down her reserve. With an exclamation of tenderness, she drew her hands from his clasp, and put her arms about his neck

"But there are things I have not yet told you," she insisted half an hour later

"What kind of things?" the man asked, smiling down at her. "You cannot scare me now, darling by anything you may say—since nothing can change what you have already said."

"You must listen," she protested. "It is not a pretty story."

He listened while she told him of the episode of the rings. When he uttered a violent imprecation she laid her fingers on his lips "Please," she begged, "do not let us mar our happiness by getting angry! Only I wanted you to know. For it has not been explained, you see—what took the rings."

"It is al plain to me," the man declared. "The same cur who forced his attentions upon yourself who kissed you against your will —whom you angered by your honesty, by your purity—carried the rings to spite you. And then, scared at the outcome—he returned them—his conscience."

Again she checked him. "Promise me to try to forget all about him," she pleaded. "I only hope his poor father may bring out the good that is somewhere in the son."

"They were going to Europe together this Spring," John Carter said. "The house is to be closed until their return.

"And now let us talk about something else When will you marry me?"

This subject, too, required long conversation. But before Jennie returned to the settlement in June there would be a quiet little wedding in a certain little church near the park.

Adelaide made a feeble protest. "I am so commonplace, so uneducated—I may make you ashamed of me"

"Ashamed of you!" he scoffed. "You make every other girl even as nothing compared to you."

"I will do my best to educate myself," she promised humbly. "I know so little."

"You know what no books can teach!" he exclaimed. "The kind of knowledge you long for is easily acquired. What you are, darling, cannot be learned by study. And it is that in you that I love. All other things are mere adjuncts"

"But I want those adjuncts," she insisted.

"And you shall have them," he promised. "You will have a full life, my sweetheart. You shall be often with your mother and Jennie in the little home we will get for them; you will read and study, you say, and you will keep the home and heart of the happiest man in all the world!"

And, as she looked into his eyes, she knew he was speaking the truth.

Between the Eyes.

A few years ago I went into a restaurant in Providence This particular place was equipped with those large, wooden electric fans, hanging from the ceiling and shaped like airplane propellers. These were hung rather low. I took off my straw hat and reached up to put it on a high hook. The blade of the fan struck my hat, sealed it through the air, struck a woman diner between the eyes and dropped into her soup. I retrieved my headgear, mumbled apologies and fled.

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

By ANN LISLE

"BUT one thing you will not be able to teach to little Rosa. And that is to take down what you call the 'barriers.' Mrs. Dalton said once in a time to which I am educated — there's a place for everything and for me, and keep everybody in her place. Do you take dinner with us at the house of James' sister tonight?"

"I have an appointment with Miss Storrs. You haven't forgotten that you're dining with Carlotta and me tonight, have you, Mabel? Calling on you?

I spoke with an emphasis that didn't escape the astute Mabel

"Of course, I'm counting on keeping the engagement—unless you wish to break it."

"Couldn't think of it," I replied gayly. "A date with you and Carlotta would seem important enough to me even if a couple of presidents were inviting me out."

Rosa smiled knowingly. Though it doesn't seem possible that she could have read more into the incident than my desire to defend Mabel, still I was a bit uneasy. And my discomfort wasn't lessened by her words

"It is pleasant at Dreamwold. I should find it too delightful to miss —if I had the entree there. But I forget—I have the entree. I am invited to live there. Do I see much of you—there"

"You'll see much of me everywhere," I answered non committally. "Now when do we three meet again?"

"I give the mornings of my days to this office. I make my—now you see it!—headquarters at the office of Pat Dalton. And now if you tell your friend the office boy to call me a taxi, Miss Storrs, I go to the appointment I so shockingly keep waiting. But he will. They always wait for me, these funny big boys we call men. I suppose I must have a way with them. How you think about that Mrs. Harrison—do you suppose I could have 'a way' with me?"

Rosa laughed and floated to the doorway, saying:

"That you so dainty lunch. I will wait inside until Miss Storrs' friend have call my taxi. And since you think I have a way with me, White Lilac, maybe for me one of these nights you break your so important engagements and invite yourself once to the house of James's sister, where you feel at home so you could do this. Is it not?"

The door tinkled softly to. Rosa was gone

Pulling myself together I turned to face Mabel Storrs.

"Is she odious—or am I a superseentive plant?" asked Mabel Storrs as the door closed after Rosa Cordova

"I called her a humming bird, but I think my zoology was poor," I replied. "Carlotta named her kitten, and hers wasn't much better. Is there anything that has both claws and a stinger?"

Mabel replied by asking another question in a tone of immeasurable relief:

"Then you don't think I am a—cat or a knave—for wanting to keep the chair which is symbol of authority in this office?"

"Jim delegated that chair to you," I replied, assuming the completely friendly understanding between us and dropping the formal "Mr. Harrison" by which I had named my husband until this moment.

In silence, then, and without further comment, we munched our sandwiches and drank our coffee. It was hungry enough to relish the feast the little lame lad had provided, but even if I hadn't wanted to eat I would have felt that I owed it to Oliver and to Mabel to make up for Rosa Cordova's lack of appreciation. After we had assuaged the first pangs of hunger and so quieted starving and clamoring nerves, Mabel returned to the subject we had both been pondering quietly:

"Anne, I've never before felt so just to spite him and all of us you hold back your tears"

The injustice of this outraged the child's soul. He stamped his foot in protest

"That a n't so"

"It is so, so" Claymore snapped back, and again he flaunted the red rag. "You can cry as well as anybody. You know that. I've been friends with you, and I thought you were friends with me and with the star and Miss Steddon, here But you're worse than the little baby who wouldn't play with the pistol He didn't know any better. But you—there's only one thing keeping you from crying."

"What-at?" whimpered Terry, his lips shivering, his chin puckering as with a drawstring, his throat gulping till Mem could hardly keep from dashing to his rescue.

FINANCE —AND— BUSINESS

By W. S. COUSINS.

Copyright 1922, by Cosmopolitan News Service.

Prevailing sentiment among business and financial leaders of the country in early January was that, while 1922 was unlikely to produce anything spectacular in the line of business development, a sure and steady improvement in basic industries could be looked for, results of which would make a favorable showing in the aggregate.

* * *

While a good many shortcomings could easily be pointed out in the record of the first half year, that period has witnessed a remarkable "comeback" in a number of important industries and, if the second half of the year is as rich in accomplishments as the first six months, there should be no reason to complain.

* * *

Many vexing problems have disappeared from the scene, while those which have been introduced are also on a fair way to solution.

* * *

Among the achievements of the first half year none was so spectacular as that of the automobile industry. Pauper to prince has had its remarkable gait and many of the automobile concerns that contemplated putting up the shutters are now in the first rank as money makers.

* * *

Car loadings have shown a steady advance and railroad earnings have consequently jumped, despite the severe handicap imposed upon transportation business by the coal strike in three of the otherwise productive months of the year.

* * *

Retail trade for first time in many months is in excess of that of a year ago. Although the production of anthracite coal has been reduced practically to nothing, the production of bituminous fuel of non-union mines has helped to keep industry well supplied with fuel, at the same time that the petroleum output for the month has shown an advance, as compared with April. General improvement conditions have taken a very decided turn for the better.

* * *

Persistent efforts of public utility managers to get themselves interested in a financial way in the company are reflected in concrete form in the report showing the increase of American Telephone & Telegraph stockholders.

Present figures indicate the firm's shareholders are increasing at the rate of about 3,000 a month, the number on June 30 being 264,000 as compared to 198,242 as of December 31, 1921. Besides this there are at present 130,000 employees of the Bell system who are buying the stock on the monthly instalment plan.

* * *

Domestic copper market continues firm no agency of export being willing to undercut 12¾. The increased price is due partly to the fact that several agencies have little copper available for delivery before August.

CALUMET & ARIZONA OUTPUT ANNOUNCED

"THE UNDERSTUDY"
Robertson-Cole

Mary Nell.....Doris May
Tom.....Wallace MacDonald
Mr. Manning.....Otis Harlan
Aunt Martha Adele Farrington
Grace.....Christine Mayo
Cuthbert Vane.....Arthur Hoyt

Story by Ethel Madden. Continuity by Beatrice Van. Directed by William Seiter.

THE best thing about the Doris May comedies is that they have continuous action. "The Understudy," her newest film, now being shown at the Modern and Beacon Theatres, is not unusual, but it is fast and furious.

Miss May is called upon to act as understudy for Grace Lorimer, an actress with whom Tom, the scion of the house of Manning thinks he is in love. Tom's father offers to buy off the actress, but as she is leaving for Montreal, she sends Mary in her place. The father guesses the deception, and plans a little plot of his own, which, with his hurried interferences succeeds.

Doris May is in no sense an actress. She is not even a comedienne, but she has a breathlessness and a certain awkwardness that her stories need. Arthur Hoyt, as an effeminate and self-satisfied society beau, gives one of the best performances in the production.

"WHEN ROMANCE RIDES"

THE COMPANION picture on the bill is the Hampton film, "When Romance Rides," adapted from Zane Grey's "Wildfire." It is a story of "the wide, open spaces where men are men" but is not conspicuous for being any different from the rest of the ranch stories. There is a stolen horse, a horse race, won by the heroine on "an unknown," and a stalwart hero who rides to rescue the girl from the half-witted villain. There is nothing original in it.

THEDA WITH SELZNICK

THEDA BARA'S return is all ready. She has signed on the dotted line to make a picture for Selznick. This producer has decided that the time is ripe for this famous vampire to stage a "comeback." She has been away from the screen for two years, and the public is still clamoring for information concerning her. As a matter of fact, she has kept in touch with many of her fans by making personal appearances throughout the East and in the middle West.

A special story has been bought for her—doubtless along the lines of her former successes—and it is expected that her husband, Charles Brabin, will be the director.

BLANCHE SWEET WITH METRO

NOW that the Metro concern is starting in on a new series of stars, Clara Kimball Young and Billie Dove to replace Alice Lake, May Allison, Nazimova, and Bert Lytell, all eyes in the film world are turned on that studio.

Blanche Sweet, now Mrs. Marsh all Nellan, is the newest to be chosen. She will have the leading role in "Quincy Adams Sawyer," another "old home town" production.

MUCH has been said regarding the all-round cleverness and talent of Charlie Chaplin. He is not only a comedian, say those who know him, but he is a thinker as well. Which, after all, is not strange. Being a comedian is a thoughtful business. His newest departure, however,—that of writing a book on his European trip,—was not a happy idea. Here's what John Farrar says of it in the June Bookman:

"Charlie Chaplin in 'Shoulder Arms' or 'The Kid' is a consummate artist. Charlie Chaplin as a writer reminds one of the old adage, 'Shoemaker, stick to your last.' It were far better for Charlie to strut the screen and let his press agent 'do' the literary effusions. My Trip Abroad' (Harper) will be a crushing blow to those who believe the comedian to be mentally ambidextrous. Charlie can act the clown superbly, but when he writes a book, although in all seriousness, he's still clownish, but doesn't know it."

"A FOOL THERE WAS."

A PRIVATE showing of the Fox production, "A Fool There Was," was given out in Los Angeles a few days ago and was given in its entirety before any of the cutting began. Those who saw it are enthusiastic.

The motion picture editor of a Los Angeles paper compares it to the old version in which Theda Bara was starred some time ago. Studie Valerie's vampire lacks some of the vividness and sensationalism of Theda's. She has given it more subtlety—with a view to censorship, no doubt.

TITLE TEST ANSWERS

Correct Title—"A Way Out of It. The igloo (or iglu) is the Winter home of the Eskimo. It is usually built of stones, chinked and covered with moss and banked up with snow. The entrance (and exit, or "way out of it") is a long passage, high enough to admit a man crawling upon hands and knees. (See the Encyclopedia Britannica.)

Correct Title—"The Valley of Unrest "In this drawing," says the Test Artist, "I endeavored to present a scene in a valley back in the days when, according to science—or some scientists—the earth was inhabited only by beasts and the elements were continually in a state of violent agitation. Hence, the 'valley of unrest'."

WOMAN TO RUN IN ROXBURY FOR LEGISLATURE

Miss Katherine W. Dowling of No. 348 Warren street, Roxbury, has filed with the Secretary of State papers signifying her intention to be a candidate for nomination to the House of Representatives. She is running on the Republican ticket from the 16th Suffolk District.

Other nomination papers filed were as follows:

Bernard V. Sbraccia, Representative, 3d Suffolk District; Daniel A. Crowley, Representative, 11th Suffolk District; William Cass, Representative, 13th Suffolk District; John K. Kane, Representative, 1st Suffolk District; Daniel J. Curley, Representative, 13th Suffolk District, John D. McDonald, State Committee, 3d Middlesex District, and Joseph P. Walsh, District Attorney Suffolk County.

All of these candidates are Democrats.

STATE AWARDS 4 ROAD CONTRACTS

Four contracts for work under the highway division of the State Public Works Department were awarded to the lowest bidders, according to announcement from the State House. They were as follows:

Construction of the river road from Holyoke to West Springfield, Hampden County, to Worcester, bid $82,390; branch road from the river road to the Springfield line, Lane Construction Co. of Meriden Conn., bid $73,479; Hyannis across the Cape at Yarmouth, Atwood & Thomas Construction Co. of Middleboro, bid $53,482, and three concrete bridges on the main road between Dalton and Bonny Rigg Four Corners, the Fennell Engineering Co. of Gardner, bid $26,591.

SEEKS MORE PLAY IN CHURCH LIFE

Sister Smith will now lead the congregational football team, while Brother Smith conducts the class in bean bags."

Sounds flippant, but you may hear it soon in some of the best churches. Must be more fun in church life.

So declared Miss M. Leitia Stockett, director of games and dances of the Baltimore Playground Association, addressing delegates to the Wellesley conference for church work, held under the auspices of the Episcopal Church.

"Joy is the gift of the Holy Spirit," said Miss Stockett. "One of the more usual comments made by young people is that there isn't enough fun in the church, that we are too serious and solemn."

FIVE-DAY TRIP TO IDENTIFY DOG

New York, July 6—A trip from Los Angeles to Town road across by Edwin Rayfield, a Los Angeles business man, for the sole purpose of identifying a dog, a furniture dealer had entered a charge of petty larceny against Rayfield's mother, Mrs. Mary Rayfield. The dealer said the dog was his. Mrs. Rayfield refused to give up the dog and court action followed. Rayfield's identification trip settled the issue and his mother won the dog.

KLAN OFFICE GOES TO WORCESTER

State headquarters of the Ku Klux Klan moved today from Boston to Worcester. The transfer is said to be due to the fact that the invasion of the State branch of the invisible empire being a prominent professional man in Worcester. He wants the Klan headquarters in his city. Propaganda will still be circulated from Boston, it was stated by a member of the staff, as an office to be maintained here for that purpose.

McKINLEY MEMORIAL UNVEILED IN ATLANTA

Atlanta, Ga., July 6.—A bronze tablet to commemorate President McKinley, was unveiled in Piedmont Park. The Buckeye Women's Club dedicated the trees in Author's Grove to William Dean Howells and to President Harding.

Baker in Auditor Race

Pittsfield, July 6.—Attorney J. Arthur Baker today announced he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for State Auditor. He declared that he believes the western part of the State is entitled to recognition on the ticket. Mr. Baker was recently mentioned as a possible appointee on the Governor's Council.

"Bunches of Muscle"

You Don't Need This on Your Back, but Working on a Farm WOULD Do You Good

Two young men want to be stronger and healthier, get away from the city and work on a farm. Read their letter. Usually such letters come from boys on a farm who want to get away to the city. This is a change.

The question: "How can we invest a year?" should be in the minds of all young men.

Editor Boston American:

Dear Sir—How can we invest a year?

We are two young chaps, with good jobs and excellent prospects. But we have come to a sudden realization that we lack one of the most important elements of success—a robust physique.

Do not misunderstand. We are not sick. We are healthy, as health goes in the city. But no muscle bunches on our backs. Our chests could stand a few inches development before bulging our shirt fronts.

We want to get on a farm and work—work until our bodies are fit to harbor the ambitions that fire us.

How can we get in touch with a farmer who would take us in, and give us food, clothes and maybe a few dollars a month extra for our work?

I have spent my childhood on a farm. I know what tortures the first few weeks would be. But after!—We would eat, drink and sleep well.

Is our scheme hare-brained? How can we get in touch with a farmer who could use us, or an agency that could place us? The Summer wanes. Every day lessens our chances. Please answer immediately. If you use this for publication, kindly omit names and addresses. We don't want to lose our jobs—yet.

Yours sincerely,
J. G. and J. S.

Your first question, young men, is your important question, "How can we invest a year?" All of us should invest our years. A few invest them, the majority squander them.

For yourselves you must decide the advisability of going into the country to lay a new foundation of health upon which to build.

You need not regret the absence of "bunches of muscle" on your back. Bunches of muscle on the back cease to be important with the application of steel and electricity to carrying of power.

In Constantinople you may see a Turk walking upstairs with one "innovation trunk" and other luggage on his back. Below the trunk are bunches of muscle that would amaze you.

Following behind the innovation trunk you would see some little commercial traveler weighing about 120 pounds, and not a bunch of muscle anywhere. But he is a better man than the Turk who carries the trunk. For he has been developing differentiation of tissue in the brain underneath his skull.

Get your chest bigger by all means if you can—you can do that in the city.

But if you choose to settle on a farm, realizing that intelligent, intensive farming is profitable and pleasant, it may be a good thing for you.

In any case, life in the country would change the direction of your thought; you would get out of your mental rut. And nobody does much until he DOES get out of his mental rut.

Hard farm work—provided you have plenty of sleep and good food—would greatly improve your condition mentally and physically in six months.

It is not likely that any farmer would give you steady work for a year. Farmers usually hire men in the Summer and let them go in the Fall—that is one difficulty with the labor situation.

If you do get work on a farm, remember that violent, sudden work is bad. You might get a job picking apples, peaches or other fruit to start with.

You will find sufficient exercise in carrying a sixty-pound fruit basket through the orchard.

Later you could work up to the harder tasks.

Meanwhile, good luck to you and thanks for your interesting letter, which may make some other young men think.

Give All a Fair Chance

Copyright, 1922, Star Co.

Ships owned by the United States Government sell beer, wine, whiskey and everything else to passengers once they get outside the three-mile limit.

The head of the Shipping Board says that if the ships do not supply what the passengers want they won't have any passengers.

The matter will be made a political issue at elections, of course, and it is easy to guess what the result will be.

It is also easy to say how the matter should be adjusted. This country NEEDS a merchant marine—it must have passenger traffic to build up such a marine. It is a fact that the passengers will go on boats that will give them what they want.

If American ships are to carry no intoxicating liquors, then no other ships entering United States ports should be allowed to carry intoxicating liquors. That would give everybody a fair chance. But it will not be settled that way.

Nashua Mills Evictions

It is reported that they are evicting the employes of the mills in Nashua from houses belonging to the mills. We understand that even those who are paying their rent are being evicted in order to make way for the strike-breakers. It is also reported that the housing conditions in Nashua leave those evicted nowhere to go.

This is the vice of employer ownership of employes' homes. It has always been a danger to the industrial freedom of the employes and tends to produce a kind of peonage utterly foreign to American institutions and American spirit.

The Voice of New England

Enjoyed Himself

Editor Boston American:

I went to the outing to Nantasket, which the Boston American gave, and I had a better time than I ever had before. When the ship was rocking I wished that I was a sailor. My mother was overjoyed with the ride. She said: "This is the best time I have had since I have been in America."

Wonderful Day

Editor Boston American:

I want to thank you for the grand outing you gave us at Nantasket Friday. The boat trip we enjoyed every minute, and the milk, ice cream and Paragon Park were a great treat. We all had a wonderful day. The children say they will never forget the Boston American's outing.

Kind to a Dog

Editor Boston American:

President Harding should be highly commended for the plea which he made in behalf of a dog at Harrisburg, Pa. Think of it; a man of his high standing having the kindness to intercede and save the life of a dumb animal. The ex-service men are wondering how a man of so gracious and sympathetic a disposition can perform such an act and at the same time repudiate his pledges to the nation by opposing the bonus bill. Meanwhile, the service men are walking the streets in search of work. Think it over.

Hercules

Boston American:

If it be thought necessary to go to the pages of mythology to find a prototype commensurate with the exceeding expanse of Mr. J. Weston Allen's merit, and if Mr. Allen's admirers see fit to make him a little ridiculous by labeling him a "Hercules"—so be it, for the present—a label for Mr. Allen, but a libel on poor Hercules. A little later in the year, as it seems to many, and still invoking the pages of mythology, the Hercules simile will quite inevitably yield place to one more fitting, albeit not nearly so laugh provoking—yes, I rather fancy that for Hercules we shall, by common consent, substitute Enceladus — he who was crushed under the weight of his own audacity and insolence. And, by the way, are we to consider that President Lowell of Harvard is making a sly dig at Mr. Allen—when we recall that the particular labor of Hercules referred to in the celebration of Mr. Allen's prowess was ruled out by his taskmaster Eurystheus on the ground of dishonesty in performance. Hercules having had unfair recourse to the help of his friend Iolaus! Why not dub Mr. Godfrey Cabot Iolaus and extend just one more degree, this time in his direction.

Rabid Imperialism

Editor Boston American:

Permit me to reply to "Patriot" in today's issue of the American. His nom-de-plume is adopted ostensibly for the purpose of insinuating loyalty to American institutions. One who sympathises with England approves of English methods, and therefore, cannot be a true American. The name of a British warship on a cap-band is always preceded by the initials "H. M. S." which mean "His Majesty's Ship." It is the recognised badge of a rabid and inexorable imperialism that enslaves millions and thrives on brigandage and murder, and as such, it is an outrage of common decency to place the infamous badge on the cap of an innocent, unthinking American child.

No, "Patriot," we cannot carry hatred of evil "too far."

Trusting you will publish the above for the benefit of "Patriot" and others of his peculiar moral psychology.

WHAT MORE DO YOU WANT THAN THIS SATISFACTION

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

WHAT more do you want, what better pay could you have for thought, word or effort, than the satisfaction of touching another life and making it a bit better for that contact?

Some months ago, the writer presented through this newspaper service an article on the "Joy of Work," which was in part a protest against a certain professor's statement that anyone who pretended to find joy in work is an ass.

That reached the eye and the heart of a locomotive engineer on the Pennsylvania Railroad. He sent in such a classic rhapsody on the subject as to make his letter the shining jewel for the setting of a subsequent article on the relative wisdom of the professor and the engineer.

Then followed a protracted silence, broken this morning by the arrival of another letter from Philadelphia, in response to a recent article in this series.

Thought the writer: "How far that little candle throws his beams!"

And again the letter was so fine in style and so beautiful in spirit that it carries a story and an influence which should be shared, at least in part, with readers of these articles.

He says, "You ask, in this morning's American, 'How do you get your thrills when you want one?' I'll tell you how I used to get mine. I am a driver of locomotives, which in itself is quite exciting at times. But riding seventy miles an hour becomes quite dull in time, so that it no longer gives the thrill.

"I used to speed at night quite frequently at speeds you never would believe an engine could travel. When rounding curves and the engine straightened out and I was still alive, I used to think I had beaten Fate.

"And that was how I used to get my thrills.

"That was before I started to read your articles in The New York American, and somehow I soon became aware that the thrills I was so fond of were not the real thrills of life. Only then did I discover that the real thrills come from a brain that is able to assimilate the beauty of nature, the wonder of the heavens, and the magnitude of the sea.

"My greatest thrill, dear Doctor, was not a giant locomotive rushing ninety miles an hour through the starry night, but a little letter received from you some months ago. So I agree with you, that 'life, the mere living, is endlessly exciting if you are really alive to its meaning and its possibilities.'"

A thousand dollar bill, to talk in modern terms, could not have brought to the present writer the delicious thrill, the deep, down heart-tickle, caused by the sincere tribute of the engineer.

O, yes! partly this is mere vanity. But mainly it is that subtlest of human joys born of the satisfaction of having touched another soul—with good.

Invest yourself in that fashion, seising every chance. You will be delighted with your dividends.

If This Is Your Birthday

You Are LUCKY

PEOPLE born this day of the year are noted for their courage and resoluteness of purpose. Their minds are cold and precise and their hearts as dry as dust. But for all their rigidity there is in them a great gift of love for those who have the good fortune to penetrate their rought, forbidden interiors.

If today is your birthday you should cultivate spontaneity, which is, after all, the oil of life and which will make your way of living easier and probably more gratifying.

Today is one of uncertain omen for general business, but of favorable outlook for personal matters about 4 p m.

During the next year of your life you will receive unexpected assistance from friends and you will prosper beyond your own expectations.

A child born today will be unresponsive, self-reliant and headstrong, and should be guided with persuasion rather than force.

Famous persons born this day:

John Paul Jones—First Admiral of the U. S. Navy.

John B. Gordon—Soldier and Statesman.

ARE YOU PLAYING THE GAME OF LIFE PROPERLY?

To make life a success you must keep your eye on the ball—your object—as is the rule in golf.

You must swing at your object without allowing your attention to be divided.

Each drive you must follow through, in order to direct it.

If you swerve in your purpose your project is not going to push straight forward.

You must set yourself and stay set until your project is given the driving force which will carry it on and on.

Accuracy and power must be behind your purpose.

In your own mind you must have an objective point, and this should lead straight to your goal, so that every effort may be in direct line for the point in mind.

At times it may be necessary for you to curve to the right or to the left, but remember that only the expert can do this consistently and with accuracy.

SEEN AND HEARD

EVER see the bathing nymphs, Santa Claus or St. Nicholas in the marble at the Public Library, Copley Square? A startling Santa Claus image is fashioned by nature in the marble on the left wall at the head of the first landing of the main staircase. Water-nymphs are disporting on the right side. POLICE OFFICER SHAW, now retired, used to spend hours searching for curious figures hidden in the marble walls. Officer Shaw discovered Santa Claus. The news sleuth discovered the artistic poses.

Into the registry department one day when the office was crowded with June brides-to-be there walked a very pretty young lady. She wished to register a complaint. An obliging clerk asked the nature of it and was informed that she wished to register her protest against a woman in her vicinity that persisted in waking her up every morning at 7:45 by his loud cries. She also stated that she worked until midnight evenings and was opposed to anything that caused her to be disturbed at such an early hour. CITY REGISTRAR EDWIN McGLENEN and his two assistants, JEREMIAH O'LEARY and JOSEPH CAHALAN, said that they have received numerous complaints, but never before had they heard of one against the tee-man, especially during the Summer. She was sent to the proper department, where her complaint was recorded.

Cornell University should be O'Connell University. So speaks former CONGRESSMAN JOSEPH F. O'CONNELL. Apropos a medical student changing his name from O'Connell to Cornell, the genial and honorable "Joe" says: "GOVERNOR CORNELL of New York, after whom the University of Cornell was named, bore the name O'Connell. Inability to spell names—a frequent remise in Revolutionary days—corrupted the name to Cornell."

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE HOOVER visited Providence on Monday. JACK DEMPSEY called there on Wednesday. Fifty people turned out to greet Hoover. Five thousand greeted Dempsey. What a chance for ARTHUR BRISBANE to comment on the progress of civilization.

ROGER W. BABSON, the statistician, was held up a few evenings ago in front of his Wellesley Hills office. He laid his hand upon the shoulder of the bandit and sent forth such a volcanic eruption of crime statistics since the war that his assailant was overcome. Babson, who is a good talker, finally convinced the man and he slunk away.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON COLOR INFLUENCE

By Garrett P. Serviss

IN the popular discussion of evolution now going on the theory of Dr. Christine Ladd-Franklin of Columbia University, which she calls the development color theory, might help to throw light upon the problem of the manner of man's origin and his relationship to other animals.

This theory makes a very striking appeal to the imagination by the glimpses that it gives, or rather suggests, of the way the world looks, and has in much earlier times looked, to creatures other than ourselves.

The details of the subject are only for physiologists and psychologists, but in many points it must interest everybody. The ancestral development of the light-sensations whereby, through our eyes, we are made acquainted with the world and the universe around us had, according to Dr. Ladd-Franklin, three successive stages. Those stages were dependent upon an evolutionary process whereby the complexity and sensitivity of the retina of the eye gradually advanced.

The first of the stages in the development of light sensations in the eye that the Ladd-Franklin theory detects is that of a "white sense" only. This achromatic vision, "furnished by the more primitive retinal elements, the rods, occurs (a) in the lower animals, such as lived, for instance, in carboniferous times, when colored flowers and colored birds did not yet exist; (b) in those defective individuals who have achromatic vision only (i. e., those who see everything without color other than white); (c) in the far periphery of our own retina."

The second stage is that of "dichromatic" (two-color) vision, the visible spectrum being yellow at one end and blue at the other, "but in place of what should be the yellow-blues appears white. This is the vision of the bees, of the partially color blind and of our own mid-periphery."

The third stage is "complete tetrachromatic (four-color)" color vision—the red and green sensations have been added, but where we have the physical conditions for seeing the red-greens, or the red-green-blues, yellow and white, respectively, take their places."

The statement that the second stage, the dichromatic, "is the vision of the bees," is very interesting. If we grant that it represents the facts. To the average person it will appear, to say the least, very remarkable that the bees, whose special life-business is among the flowers, and who seem to be drawn particularly to those of brilliant hues, see only two colors with no blending of hues between them.

And then think of that pallid age, blanketed with a sense of universal whiteness, when—if it was really so—the animal contemporaries of the coal-forming plants, inhabiting the low, swampy lands and the endless lagoons that constituted the stage of the living world then, saw no play or gleam of color anywhere, however the sunbeams at their busy work of storing up thermal energy for use in the coming age of man may have been spectrally splintered.

"Colored flowers and birds did not yet exist," says Dr. Ladd-Franklin. But it would seem that this would mean that the retinas of the eyes that saw the birds were insensitive to colors that might have given chromatic splendor to those same birds if we had looked at them with our highly developed organs of vision.

—Medbury Says—

The Average Dog Can Smell a Burglar a Mile Away, in Time to Hide

There was an article in the paper the other day where a man spent a thousand dollars for a watchdog. If most of us spent a thousand bucks for a watchdog we wouldn't have anything left for him to watch.

The dog store took his thousand dollars, and then burglars broke into his house that night and stole the dog.

A good watchdog is hard to find, especially when there are burglars around.

A big dog is better than a small one, because when he discovers burglars breaking into your house you can hear him running away.

But the average dog isn't afraid of burglars; they can sleep, no matter how many of them break into your house.

Still, one man's house was saved by a dog that was being robbed. A burglar climbed in through a window, tripped over a sleeping watchdog and broke both of his arms.

The owner of the house heard the noise way up on the third floor, but it didn't wake the dog.

He must have belonged to a union man at one time and was getting his eight hours sleep.

The burglar didn't step on the dog hard enough to kill him, but if he did it would have saved the owner the trouble

The average dog can smell a burglar a mile away, and this gives him a chance to hide before the burglar gets to the house.

One guy bought what he thought was a wonderful watch dog, but the second night he had him he found him down cellar with two burglars, carrying their tools for them.

The guy who owned him was a landlord. The dog couldn't tell a burglar or he would have bitten his master.

This landlord was so tight he even charged his watch dog rent for the kennel he slept in.

The dog didn't have any money, so his master only gave him one meal a day instead of two.

The landlord figured that if the dog wanted an extra bite of meat he could get it out of the burglars.

But the burglars usually broke in after twelve or one o'clock and the dog didn't eat at night.

A dog is all right for a pet but if you have a thousand dollars its better to put the money in the bank and lock the dog up too.
